Citizen Group Asks Board To Submit Levies

Renewal Of 8-Mill, Additional 4 Mills, Urged For Schools

A recommendation from the Citizens Committee for Better Schools that the Board of Education seek renewal of an 8-mill operating levy and ask an additional 4 mills "for needed funds for proper school operation" at the Nov. 3 general election was taken under advisement by the board Monday night.

The recommendation was presented verbally by Supt. Ralph W. Betts when Edwin Maloney, committee chairman, was unable to attend.

The proposal was received virtually without comment, board members indicating they wanted additional time for study. The filing deadline for such propositions for the general election is Aug. 5.

A motion by C. Walter Ashbaugh that the recommendation be received and referred to the board as a committee of the whole was approved unanimously.

In presenting the recommendation, Betts said the committee has held two meetings, the last continuing for more than two hours when an exhaustive discussion was held on the financial plight of the school system.

Questioned by James Lowe, member, Betts said 18 attended the committee meeting and no dissenting vote was cast on the recommendation. Lowe then commented, "We can't afford to ignore the recommendations; the committee has done an outstanding job in the past."

Board members have several questions to mill over before reaching a decision. They include the size of the levy, when to submit, whether to put both on one ballot or as separate issues and whether to vote on the issues at the same election or at separate elections for each.

Privately, members indicated the need for additional operating funds is acute but expressed doubt whether the proposal should be put up for a vote in November, apparently because the referendum on the controversial income tax question also is scheduled then.

A hearing tonight in Columbus before the Senate education committee may aid the board in deciding when to submit any proposition. The committee is scheduled to consider a bill approved by the House providing some changes in school levies.

The legislation would provide that the first 10 mills can be levied permanently with all millage over and above that running for 10 years. It also would provide that only a bare majority would be required in general elections and at primary elections in even-numbered years. At primary elections in odd-numbered years, a 60 per cent majority would be required to approve levies.

The tax valuation of the school district, which includes the city and Liverpool Township, is $47,034,000, which would provide $47,034 for each mill of tax.

The 8-mill renewal has been approved previously and is the outgrowth of combining two former levies, one of 5 mills and the other for 3. With the present rates, the 8 mills would return $376,272 yearly, more than one fourth of the current appropriations for the general operating fund.

However, an additional $200,000 in state aid is dependent on renewal of the 8-mill levy because law

Victim's Body Found

FBI Spurs Hunt For Lynch Mob

BOGALUSA, La. (AP) — Discovery of the water-bleached body of Mack Charles Parker, of Poplarville, Miss., lynch victim, spurred the FBI to fresh efforts today to find his kidnap-slayers.

But, the Negro's body offered few clues to bolster the search after an FBI agent and a Mississippi highway patrolman dragged it from the receding waters of the Pearl River near Bogalusa Monday.

It did pin down fate of the 23-year-old Lumberton truck driver who had been charged with the rape of a pregnant white woman. Since his abduction April 25, his violent death had been supposition and speculation.

The FBI in Washington confirmed identity of the body. J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, had ordered a special hunt for Parker and his lynchers.

The FBI agent and his companion spotted the head, one arm and a shoulder above the water line in a drift three miles south of the Poplarville-Bogalusa bridge across the Pearl River.

Swirling currents lodged the body's left foot in the fork of a tree.

The night raiders who dragged Parker from the Poplarville jail by his heels stripped Parker of all his clothes except an undershirt and a pair of shorts.

The coroner at Bogalusa's Charity Hospital did not say how Parker died, except to report a bad spot on the right side of the head.

No one attempted to estimate how long the body had been in the water.

A gang of eight or 10 men wearing masks and white gloves broke into the Poplarville jail, about 20 miles from here, shortly after midnight April 25, savagely beat Parker, dragged him screaming down the steps from his third-story cell and threw him into a waiting car.

Fellow prisoners said he yelled he was innocent as the men took him from the jail.

Warrants charging the mob with kidnaping are on file, but Pearl River County, Miss., officials said new charges had been filed against the men.

The rape Parker was accused of occurred Feb. 25 near Lumberton, Miss. The victim and her 5-year-old daughter were sitting in a stalled car waiting for her husband to return with help.

She said a Negro in a black automobile drove up, threatened her with a gun, forced her and the child to get into his car and drove them into a wooded area where he raped her as the child watched.

The 24-year-old woman later picked Parker from a 25-man lineup.

Officers had believed from the first that Parker's body probably would be found in the Pearl River or one of the streams in the area.

Special FBI agent Ralph Bachman and Bill Hood, chief of the Mississippi Highway Patrol, directed the search.

Last week officers flew up and down the river in the hunt for some trace of Parker. Monday for the first time, they used skiffs.

"We apparently hit it just right after the water had fallen," Bachman said.

Another searcher said the body possibly would not have been visible as late as Sunday. High water had covered the area for several days.

Sewage Charge Debated

110% Rate Plan Favored By Councilmen At Chester

In a meeting with the Chester Sanitary Board Monday night, concerning proposed sewage rates for a planned disposal system, a majority of Chester councilmen indicated they will support a 110 per cent plan when it comes to a vote Wednesday.

John Pinney and J. A. Bower of the Sanitary Board conferred with Council concerning a flat rate system which some Council members had suggested last month in place of the percentage rate.

The precentage rate had been given approval by Council on first reading, but second reading was delayed when the flat rate plan was brought up.

At last night's session, Bower said the plans for the sewage system and plant have been under preparation for a long time "and we would like to get rolling."

Pinney said the board's study had indicated the rate of 110 per cent of the water bills was the most likely rate required for the financing of the project, and the rate can be adjusted to accommodate changes in needs.

In a poll taken of councilmen, James Waggle, Walter McSwegin and John Olash indicated they will vote for the percentage rate included in legislation up for a second reading Wednesday night. Councilmen John Abrams and Charles Kology abstained.

Abrams, who first suggested the flat rate plan, listed three reasons for his advocating the plan:

1. — The city is not completely provided with water meters on which the percentage rates would be based; 2. — The placing of a meter on water hose connections is not equitable, and 3. — Residents who wash cars or water lawns will be paying double for the water if the sewer charge is based on the water bill.

Bower said much more revenue will be obtained from the percentage rate when the town is fully supplied with water meters.

Asked how long it will take to complete metering of homes and businesses in Chester, Harold Ash, water works superintendent, said it could be done in nine months "if we had the money."

Under the present program of quarterly purchases of certain amounts of meters, Ash said the

Primary Vote Seen Below 1957 Turnout

Forenoon Balloting Totals 900, Against 1,200 2 Years Ago

A forenoon survey of city voting precincts indicated the total vote in the primaries will be approximately 25 per cent less than the 5,800 votes cast two years ago in a similar primary.

The check of 11 precincts showed approximately 900 ballots had been cast before noon, compared to 1,200 in the May 1957.

Democrats held a slight edge in the number of ballots cast, precinct officials reported, but it was pointed out the Democrats have centered their interest in the three-man mayoralty race.

The heaviest balloting was reported at Precinct 2-A, which reported 39 ballots cast before noon —19 Republican and 20 Democratic. Precincts 3-C and 2-C each reported 34 ballots with the GOP holding a slight edge in each.

The total forenoon vote was ahead of 1955 when 717 ballots were cast at this time but running behind the 1953 primary when 1,030 had voted by noon.

Polling places opened at 7:30 this morning and will close at 7:30 tonight, Daylight Saving Time. East Liverpool has 10,598 qualified to vote in its 32 precincts.

Because the voting is not general throughout the county and a comparatively light turnout will reduce the task of tabulating returns, results should be available comparatively early tonight.

Returns will be almost instantaneous in Lisbon and East Palestine, where precinct crews only have to take readings on the totals from voting machines. The voting machines are being used on

EAST PALESTINE — Today's balloting in the First Ward marked the first time in 39 years that Mrs. Annie Wilkinson, 90, of E. Martin St. was not at work at the poll.

Bowing to pressure from her family, Mrs. Wilkinson—A Democrat—sat on the sidelines in this primary which was the first time in 38 years the balloting was not held in her home.

Trial of voting machines at the eight precincts here forced transfer of polls to sites with concrete floors. Mrs. Wilkinson today recalled this first time she worked at the polls, woman's suffrage was approved.

City Man Bound Over In Manslaughter Case

A Dresden Ave. motorist was bound over to the September term of the Hancock County Grand Jury on a charge of involuntary manslaughter at a hearing Monday night before Squire John D. Herron of New Cumberland.

The bond of William L. Swoger, 22, of 1432 Dresden Ave., was continued at $1,000.

Swoger is accused as the driver of a sports car that struck Howard A. Strum, 44, of near Congo on Route 66 April 17, Hancock County sheriff's deputies said.

Strum later died in City Hospital of injuries received in the mishap. Swoger waived preliminary hearing before the New Cumberland squire last night.

Negotiations Break Off In Ware Strike After 'Final Offer'

U.S. Agency Asks Parley Be Resumed

USPA, IBOP Given Woomer's Invitation To Meet Thursday

For the second time in three weeks, wage negotiations between pottery industry labor and management broke down today, but a federal mediator hopes to persuade the two factions to sit down together again Thursday morning.

The conference broke down about 10 a. m. in the U. S. Potters Association office, where meetings had been conducted almost daily since last Monday.

In less than an hour, Federal Mediator George Woomer asked the manufacturers and the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters to resume their negotiations Thursday morning at 10. Indications are that both sides will accept.

The USPA, in a statement issued by Joseph M. Wells, labor committee chairman, said that the union rejected its "final offer." The offer provided for an immediate increase of 6 cents an hour, with 3 cents more May 5, 1960, under a two-year contract, or an immediate 6 cents an hour boost and two more 3-cent raises on May 5, 1960, and May 5, 1961, if the union signed a three-year contract, the USPA said.

But the IBOP held out for its proposal which calls for a 26-cent package boost, including several additional paid holidays, the USPA said.

The IBOP replied in a statement that the USPA has not offered anything tangible because its proposi-

Change Asked In School Site

Delegation Appears At Stanton Meeting

A delegation of Stanton Local School District residents formally requested the Board of Education Monday night to consider another site for a proposed $480,000 elementary school at Empire.

Stanton residents will decide on the new project at a special election June 2 on a $498,000 bond issue. The proposed school will be coupled on the ballot with another project of $18,000 for installation of inside toilet facilities at the Hammondsville building.

Both plans were defeated by Stanton voters in two elections in 1958.

The group of about eight citizens from Port Homer, Empire, Stratton, Hammondsville and other communities in the district, indicated that they are in favor of the bond plan but would like another location for the proposed building.

The proposed 10-classroom school, designed by Robert Beatty, East Liverpool architect, would be located on the DeGarmo property in Empire under the present plan.

The board advised the group the request would be considered. The board indicated it would inspect other possible sites next week.

Proponents and opponents of the bond issue waged bitter battles in elections last year, with most criticism seeming to arise from the proposed riverfront location of the building.

The initial election for the Empire school was in July 1958 when voters rejected the $480,000 plan by a vote of 515 to 409. The bond issue was later boosted to $498,000 to provide funds for inside toilets at the Hammondsville building. The second plan was also rejected, by a vote of 713 to 629 last November.

Robert Paisley, an Irondale merchant, was spokesman for the group.

DAMAGED IN COSTLY BLAZE. Some of the damage in the U-shaped bar at the Riviera on Midland Ave. is pointed out by Asst. Fire Chief Tony Monac following the early morning blaze. Damage has been estimated at $20,000 but an additional investigation was scheduled this afternoon by Chief Vincent D'Itri to pinpoint the loss. The fire is believed to have started from a faulty neon sign.

Riviera Damaged

Midland Bar Hit By $20,000 Fire

A $20,000 blaze, apparently ignited by a faulty neon sign, gutted the interior of the Riviera Bar on Midland Ave. between 10th and 11th Sts. at Midland early today.

Some 20 Midland volunteer firemen fought the flames for over an hour, according to Fire Chief Vincent D'Itri, who said the blaze started near a window by a neon advertising sign which was sparking with an electric arc when he arrived.

The building is owned by Nick Deramo of 9th St. and Ohio Ave., and the bar is operated by Samuel Rosatone of Ohio Ave. and 6th St.

D'Itri said the interior of the bar —tables, bar, stools, liquor, paneling and other equipment — was destroyed, but the kitchen and diningrooms suffered only moderate damage. He said the blaze was under control in half an hour.

An early morning crowd from nearby homes, clad in sleeping garments, watched while the volunteers with three trucks battled the fire after connecting four hose lines.

Chief D'Itri said the alarm was received at 2:57 a. m. from Steve Komara, a guard at the Crucible Steel Co. plant entrance at 12th St., who had spotted the blaze.

The heat was intense and firemen were compelled to dampen the interior of the one-story concrete block and brick building before they could enter.

Chief D'Itri estimated the damage in his initial study, but said he would make a further check today to get a more accurate figure.

Firemen were on the job, mopping up, until about 6:30 a. m. Rosatone told D'Itri he closed the establishment about 1:45.

Unless Lawsuit Is Filed

Ohioans Covered By SUB May Get $25 Million Soon

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—In just a few days—unless a lawsuit is filed—Ohioans covered by Supplemental Unemployment Benefit (SUB) contracts will be able to collect about 25 million dollars in back payments.

The Ohio Senate virtually cleared the bill Monday, but it must go back to the House for concurrence in a major amendment. If the House agrees, only Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's signature would be needed before the emergency bill becomes law.

The Ohio Information Committee, a group of employers who oppose SUB as a forerunner to the so-called guaranteed annual wage, is considering a lawsuit to block release of SUB funds pent up while earlier lawsuits were being argued in the last couple of years.

The one major Senate amendment to the emergency bill insures that SUB-covered Ohioans who have collected SUB illegally in the past will not be "forgiven" those payments.

The illegal payments — those made before the state unemployment compensation administrator ruled out simultaneous SUB and state jobless benefits—total an estimated $400,000. The Senate amendment provides the illegal SUB payments must be deducted from future state jobless benefits.

The bill the Senate passed Monday is not to be confused with an earlier bill passed by the Democratic majority to legalize SUB permanently. That bill becomes effective June 19.

Monday's bill, sponsored by House Republicans opposed to permanent SUB but sympathetic with the plight of SUB workers to whom SUB funds owe money under negotiated contracts, would be effective about six weeks earlier. It is a temporary measure and would die when the permanent measure becomes effective.

The Ohio Information Committee, headed by Fred J. Milligan of Columbus, has contended the SUB bill sponsored by former interim GOP Gov. John W. Brown (R-Medina) and former House Speaker Roger Cloud (R-Logan) is unconstitutional because it "forgave" early SUB payments.

But, because of the Senate amendment, the bill will not be subject to a court challenge on grounds it is retroactive, Senate Majority Leader Frank W. King (D-Lucas) told the Senate. If a court challenge is raised the amendment will insure that the decision will be on the bill's merits —not on a technicality—Sen. Charles A. Mosher (R-Lorain) added.

Union, Steel Open Formal Negotiations

Pact Could Have Powerful Influence On U.S. Economy

NEW YORK (AP)—Formal negotiations open today for a new steel industry labor contract that could have a powerful influence on the nation's economy.

After waging a verbal duel for months, representatives of steel management and the Steelworkers Union finally start real slugging in the biggest labor-management bout of 1959.

The outcome will have its traditional effect on wages and prices nationally and provide the answer to whether there will be a steel strike after June 30 when present steel pacts expire.

The formal talks open first with U.S. Steel Corp., the industry's top producer, and later with other top industry firms.

Within a few days a dozen sets of negotiations, all with separate firms, will be under way, all in the Roosevelt Hotel here. Altogether there will be about 500 union negotiators and nearly as many management representatives engaged in the talks.

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, is pushing for higher wages, shorter working hours and more liberal pensions as well as other contract gains.

He has pledged that the 500,000 workers in basic steel, already among the best paid in the nation averaging $3.03 per hour, will emerge with their best contract in history. McDonald says steel profits warrant worker gains without requiring any steel price increase.

The industry, on the other hand, is resisting any contract changes, arguing that increased labor costs would cause steel price increases and thereby spur inflation.

President Eisenhower has called on both the industry and union to reach an agreement that would avoid any price increase that might disturb the price situation.

Eisenhower said he could not sit idly by if negotiations started pointing to price boosts. But he has never spelled out what he might do in that event.

Delegation Appears At Stanton Meeting

A delegation of Stanton Local School District residents formally requested the Board of Education Monday night to consider another site for a proposed $480,000 elementary school at Empire.

Stanton residents will decide on the new project at a special election June 2 on a $498,000 bond issue. The proposed school will be coupled on the ballot with another project of $18,000 for installation of inside toilet facilities at the Hammondsville building.

Both plans were defeated by Stanton voters in two elections in 1958.

The group of about eight citizens from Port Homer, Empire, Stratton, Hammondsville and other communities in the district, indicated that they are in favor of the bond plan but would like another location for the proposed building.

The proposed 10-classroom school, designed by Robert Beatty, East Liverpool architect, would be located on the DeGarmo property in Empire under the present plan.

The board advised the group the request would be considered. The board indicated it would inspect other possible sites next week.

Proponents and opponents of the bond issue waged bitter battles in elections last year, with most criticism seeming to arise from the proposed riverfront location of the building.

The initial election for the Empire school was in July 1958 when voters rejected the $480,000 plan by a vote of 515 to 409. The bond issue was later boosted to $498,000 to provide funds for inside toilets at the Hammondsville building. The second plan was also rejected, by a vote of 713 to 629 last November.

Robert Paisley, an Irondale merchant, was spokesman for the group.

DAMAGED IN COSTLY BLAZE. Some of the damage in the U-shaped bar at the Riviera on Midland Ave. is pointed out by Asst. Fire Chief Tony Monac following the early morning blaze. Damage has been estimated at $20,000 but an additional investigation was scheduled this afternoon by Chief Vincent D'Itri to pinpoint the loss. The fire is believed to have started from a faulty neon sign.

Riviera Damaged

Midland Bar Hit By $20,000 Fire

A $20,000 blaze, apparently ignited by a faulty neon sign, gutted the interior of the Riviera Bar on Midland Ave. between 10th and 11th Sts. at Midland early today.

Some 20 Midland volunteer firemen fought the flames for over an hour, according to Fire Chief Vincent D'Itri, who said the blaze started near a window by a neon advertising sign which was sparking with an electric arc when he arrived.

The building is owned by Nick Deramo of 9th St. and Ohio Ave., and the bar is operated by Samuel Rosatone of Ohio Ave. and 6th St.

D'Itri said the interior of the bar —tables, bar, stools, liquor, paneling and other equipment — was destroyed, but the kitchen and dining rooms suffered only moderate damage. He said the blaze was under control in half an hour.

An early morning crowd from nearby homes, clad in sleeping garments, watched while the volunteers with three trucks battled the fire after connecting four hose lines.

Chief D'Itri said the alarm was received at 2:57 a. m. from Steve Komara, a guard at the Crucible Steel Co. plant entrance at 12th St., who had spotted the blaze.

The heat was intense and firemen were compelled to dampen the interior of the one-story concrete block and brick building before they could enter.

Chief D'Itri estimated the damage in his initial study, but said he would make a further check today to get a more accurate figure.

Firemen were on the job, mopping up, until about 6:30 a. m. Rosatone told D'Itri he closed the establishment about 1:45.

Unless Lawsuit Is Filed

Ohioans Covered By SUB May Get $25 Million Soon

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—In just a few days—unless a lawsuit is filed—Ohioans covered by Supplemental Unemployment Benefit (SUB) contracts will be able to collect about 25 million dollars in back payments.

The Ohio Senate virtually cleared the bill Monday, but it must go back to the House for concurrence in a major amendment. If the House agrees, only Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's signature would be needed before the emergency bill becomes law.

The Ohio Information Committee, a group of employers who oppose SUB as a forerunner to the so-called guaranteed annual wage, is considering a lawsuit to block release of SUB funds pent up while earlier lawsuits were being argued in the last couple of years.

The one major Senate amendment to the emergency bill insures that SUB-covered Ohioans who have collected SUB illegally in the past will not be "forgiven" those payments.

The illegal payments — those made before the state unemployment compensation administrator ruled out simultaneous SUB and state jobless benefits—total an estimated $400,000. The Senate amendment provides the illegal SUB payments must be deducted from future state jobless benefits.

The bill the Senate passed Monday is not to be confused with an earlier bill passed by the Democratic majority to legalize SUB permanently. That bill becomes effective June 19.

Monday's bill, sponsored by House Republicans opposed to permanent SUB but sympathetic with the plight of SUB workers to whom SUB funds owe money under negotiated contracts, would be effective about six weeks earlier. It is a temporary measure and would die when the permanent measure becomes effective.

The Ohio Information Committee, headed by Fred J. Milligan of Columbus, has contended the SUB bill sponsored by former interim GOP Gov. John W. Brown (R-Medina) and former House Speaker Roger Cloud (R-Logan) is unconstitutional because it "forgave" early SUB payments.

But, because of the Senate amendment, the bill will not be subject to a court challenge on grounds it is retroactive, Senate Majority Leader Frank W. King (D-Lucas) told the Senate. If a court challenge is raised the amendment will insure that the decision will be on the bill's merits —not on a technicality—Sen. Charles A. Mosher (R-Lorain) added.

Union, Steel Open Formal Negotiations

Pact Could Have Powerful Influence On U.S. Economy

NEW YORK (AP)—Formal negotiations open today for a new steel industry labor contract that could have a powerful influence on the nation's economy.

After waging a verbal duel for months, representatives of steel management and the Steelworkers Union finally start real slugging in the biggest labor-management bout of 1959.

The outcome will have its traditional effect on wages and prices nationally and provide the answer to whether there will be a steel strike after June 30 when present steel pacts expire.

The formal talks open first with U.S. Steel Corp., the industry's top producer, and later with other top industry firms.

Within a few days a dozen sets of negotiations, all with separate firms, will be under way, all in the Roosevelt Hotel here. Altogether there will be about 500 union negotiators and nearly as many management representatives engaged in the talks.

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, is pushing for higher wages, shorter working hours and more liberal pensions as well as other contract gains.

He has pledged that the 500,000 workers in basic steel, already among the best paid in the nation averaging $3.03 per hour, will emerge with their best contract in history. McDonald says steel profits warrant worker gains without requiring any steel price increase.

The industry, on the other hand, is resisting any contract changes, arguing that increased labor costs would cause steel price increases and thereby spur inflation.

President Eisenhower has called on both the industry and union to reach an agreement that would avoid any price increase that might disturb the price situation.

Eisenhower said he could not sit idly by if negotiations started pointing to price boosts. But he has never spelled out what he might do in that event.

Board Fills One Vacancy

4 Resign Teaching Positions Here

The resignations of two East Liverpool High School teachers were among four accepted Monday night by the Board of Education.

Miss Gladys DeBolt, a history teacher, submitted her resignation effective Aug. 1.

Miss Mildred Faulk, who has been on a leave of absence and now is residing in Florida, also resigned.

The board also accepted the resignations of Clara Schwartz at the end of the term and Adam Nickum, which was effective April 17.

It approved the appointement of Mrs. Marjorie Wright to succeed Nickum for the balance of the term and extended the leave of absence for Mrs. Eva Pittenger for another year.

FOUR RENTALS of school property also were authorized by the board.

It authorized the rental of Memorial Auditorium May 15 to the Junior Chamber of Commerce for the annual post-prom party at no charge, and rental of the M-A to the LaCroft Home and School Association on June 13 for a quartet sing with only custodial fees to be charged.

The grounds at the rear of Westgate School were rented to the Blue & White Nonpareil Club for a carnival June 8-13. The club will be required to post a $100 bond, which will be returned if the grounds are cleaned up staisfactorily.

Rental of Westgate auditorium to the Smith & Phillips Co. on June 1 was approved at the commercial rate of $90. The firm will hold a workshop for church organists in the afternoon and an organ concert that night.

Issuance of a high school diploma to Donna Morris also was approved.

—:—

CONTRACTS for printed supplies went to the Keystone Printing Co. for 14 items with another being awarded to the Wilson Printing House. All were awarded on the basis of low bids.

Keystone's total bid on the 14 jobs was $561.10 while Wilson's lone successful bid was $24 for supplying 200 permanent record cards at East Junior High.

In three items, Wilson was underbid by 50 and 75 cents, the tabulation of the offers showed.

The board deferred action on a porposal from Supt. Ralph W. Betts that it consider selling the abandoned West End School, which has been used for storage since Westgate School was opened in 1956.

The building was offered for sale twice at auctions but bids were rejected both times. The board asked the superintendent to confer with Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper, its legal advisor, to determine whether it must hold another auction or can offer the brick structure at a private sale.

BETTS said the building no longer is valuable for storage and poses a maintenance problem with some roof slate in need of replacement and fire escapes rusting.

Reporting for the building committee, Betts said the committee hopes to paint Garfield, Glenmoor and Pleasant Heights buildings and the halls, restrooms and auditorium in the high school if funds are available.

Betts said all painting contractors have been asked to submit bids by May 13, specifying the cost for labor and painting and labor only. Paint dealers also have been asked to submit bids on paint by the gallon.

Bids also are being asked to paint the outside steel passageway at Westgate School.

In planning summer works, the committee estimates about $6,000 will be needed for furnace repairs, including rebuilding of two furnaces in Central School. The work will depend on an examination of the furnaces when school ends next month.

A PRICE ALSO is being sought on leveling the auditorium floor in the high school, he reported.

The committee pointed out some of its funds must be diverted to pay for a new fire escape and a fire door in the basement at Lincoln School, which were ordered following an investigation by the state fire marshal's office.

Betts said Robert Beatty, architect, is drawing plans for the fire escape and bids have been asked on the fire door but no final decision has been made by the state.

The building committee promised to consider the requests from two school delegations.

Lewis Stoddard, spokesman for a Glenmoor delegation, asked the board to consider the possibility of contracting with the Ohio Power Co. for an outside light at the school, explaining the present fixture is in need of replacement.

He also asked the board to consider exits from restrooms in the basement of the building and from two classrooms on the first floor. He also renewed a complaint about washing of the walls last summer which he termed "slipshod."

C. J. HAUGH and Frank Hopper from Lincoln presented a letter from school mothers, along with pictures, recommending partitions be constructed in the girls' restroom and replacement of sinks.

The letter also asked the installation of towel and soap holders in the restrooms and replacement of a drinking fountain.

A copy of a letter from R. L. Cawood, president of the American Paper Products Co., to C. W. Powell, local realtor, was received and filed. It outlined what financial settlements might be made if the board is interested in acquiring the company's former site at E. 3rd and Walnut Sts.

A letter also was received from Harry West, sponsor of the Masquers Club at Beaver Local High School, thanking the board for reducing the rental charge for a play the club presented in March at Memorial Auditorium.

The board at its last meeting approved a recommendation from Betts, reducing the charge from $25 to $10 without a request from the club.

Board Approves Plan

Teachers To Get Experience Pay

Granting of full experience credit on the salary schedule for present and future teachers was approved unanimously Monday night by the Board of Education in a move to enable the city system to be on a more competitive basis for hiring instructors.

In recommending passage of the proposal, Supt. Ralph W. Betts estimated it will cost about $7,000 to make up the pay difference for present staff members.

BETTS EXPLAINED under the former policy limiting experience credit to five years a teacher with 10 years' experience might lose several hundred dollars a year in accepting a position here.

Many districts have removed the experience restriction, he added.

Some of the additional cost will be covered by a reduction in the number of teachers. He explained some elementary classrooms have only 22 pupils. "Although it is professionally desirable, we can't afford it," he said.

The system also has five more teachers than the number for which credit is given under the state foundation program, he added as another reason for the staff reduction.

The board also approved an increase from $2.50 to $3 hourly for summer school instructors.

BETTS ANNOUNCED the annual pre-school registration for youngsters entering first grade in September will be held May 20 at 1:30 p. m. at all schools.

The program has been very successful, he said, pointing out about 70 per cent of the students entering attend the pre-school event. Children entering must be 6 on or before Sept. 15, he emphasized.

Betts also reported a representative of the North Central Association, which is sponsoring a project to aid superior students, inspected the program at high school and said "'a good start'" had been made in selecting superior students in the four areas covered.

The representative urged extension of the program to the 10th grade and on a broader basis in the junior high schools.

BETTS SAID Carl Pelini, assistant principal at Westgate School, has been selected to attend a six-week guidance workshop this summer at Northwestern University.

Asst. Supt. Paul Blair gave a resume of achievement tests given all third, fifth and sixth grade pupils in March. The tests showed the third grade median in city schools is two months ahead of the national median while the fifth grade is even and the sixth grade is three months ahead.

Blair said he was "very pleased" with the tests which showed the progress being made in elementary teaching.

About 60 attended a meeting of the Democrat Club Monday night at the Ostrow Building when a committee was named to confer with county commissioners about speedier distribution of surplus food.

Plans were discussed for the post-primary campaign and support was pledged to all nominees elected today. The clubrooms will be opened today at 5:30 p. m. for those awaiting election returns, Larry Finlay, president said.

The next meeting will be May 18.

a trial basis in the two communities.

In East Liverpool, the Election Board expects to make its traditional "flash" count by telephone on the results of the mayoralty voting, which means the outcome should be available in less than an hour after the polls close.

In the "flash" count, precinct staffs make a quick count on the vote for mayor on both tickets, then phone the result to the Election Board. The mayoralty totals are counted again when the returns are added up for the entire ticket.

In the last municipal primary, the Election Board had entered all the East Liverpool results on its charts and added up the totals by 11:15 on Election night.

Both Democrats and Republicans are holding primaries in East Liverpool, Wellsville, East Palestine, Salem and Salineville. Lisbon has only a GOP primary, as Democrats have no contests. Columbiana and Leetonia skipped the primaries under the Ohio "no contest" law. But Leetonia is voting in a special election on a 4-mill village operating levy.

Two levies totaling 12 mills are at stake in the Lisbon Exempted Village School District. In addition to the village proper, the school district includes Center Township and the Elkton and Southwest Precincts of Elkrun Township.

Butler and Knox Townships are voting on a 3-mill operating levy in the Mahoning Local School District.

In East Liverpool, 43 candidates are seeking nomination to 12 municipal offices.

Here's the total in East Liverpool in other municipal primaries: 1951, 4,297; 1949, 3,670; 1947, 4,458, and 1945, 3,416.

4-Way Race For Mayor Marks Weirton Voting

WEIRTON — A four-way race for the nomination for mayor and pay increases for city officials will be decided in today's non-partisan primary election.

Samuel Kusic, incumbent mayor, is not seeking re-election.

Besides the mayor's office, voters will nominate candidates for seven Council seats. The two candidates who receive the highest number of votes in each race will oppose each other in a municipal election June 2.

Mayoralty candidates include Joseph Ference, an auto dealer; David T. Frew, former director of the Recreation Council; Glenn T. Ferguson, former city councilman, and Steve Barron, Butler District constable.

Ferguson is vacating a Council seat to bid for the nomination for mayor.

Voters will decide proposed salary increases that would boost the mayor's office from $500 to $1,200 annually and councilmen from $100 to $600 a year.

Polls opened at 7:30 a. m. and will close at 8:30 p. m. (DST).

Lisbon Area Voting Termed 'Very Light'

LISBON — Precinct workers reported forenoon voting in Lisbon and surrounding areas was "very light" up to 11 a. m.

A survey of the polls showed balloting ranged from 28 at one to 10 at another. Only two contests mark the Republican election, while the Democrats have no primary because of the lack of contests.

1,000 Votes Seen For East Palestine

EAST PALESTINE — The first Democratic city primary in several years boosted balloting in today's election, bringing a better than average attendance at polls in forenoon voting, precinct officials reported.

By 11 a. m., some 300 residents —Republican and Democrat —had cast their votes, and observers predicted a total of over 1,000 in the election.

Salineville Voting Called About Average

SALINEVILLE — Forenoon voting was about average for a primary, according to precinct workers.

At the City Hall 23 had ballotted by 11 a. m. — 11 Democrats and 12 Republicans, one poll worker reported.

Light Turnout Shown In Wellsville Voting

Wellsville poll workers reported a light turnout of voters this forenoon.

Precinct 1-B at City Hall reported 22 Democrats and 25 Republicans while Precinct 2-B at the Fire Station reported 12 Democrats and 33 Republicans.

At Precinct 4-A, 19 Democrats and 4 Republicans had cast ballots in the forenoon while at 4-C a total of 10 Democrats and 9 Republicans had voted. Precinct 4-E reported a "very light vote" with 10 Democrats and 4 Republicans.

Steel Union Expects 150 At Midland Parley

Some 150 legislative committeemen, representing over 20,000 United Steelworkers of District 20, will hold their first conference in Midland Wednesday at 10 a. m. at the union hall.

Those attending will include Pete Pietrandrea, legislative director for District 20; Charles Ford, state secretary for the Pennsylvania USA committee; Harold Edwards of the USA's Washington legislative office, and Dr. Helmut Golatz of Penn State.

Steve Luketich will be chairman in the absence of Joe D'Alesio, Local 1212 president, who is out of town.

tions have been "mired so deep in technicalities." The union declared that wage policy committee was 100 per cent unanimous in its decisions and gave a rising vote of thanks this morning to the international officers for their leadership in the negotiations.

The IBOP charged that the USPA "is going back to the union busting days of the 1900's and 1930's."

A general strike in 11 dinnerware plants, including five in the East Liverpool area, started April 14 after original negotiations between union and management broke down April 13.

The text of Wells' statement follows:

"Negotiations between the IBOP conference committee and the labor committee of the USPA broke off this morning upon refusal of the IBOP to accept the final offer of the USPA as follows:

"We grant an immediate increase of 6 cents per hour and an additional 3 cents per hour effective May 5, 1960, under a two-year contract, or we grant a 6-cent per hour raise, effective at once, plus a 3-cent increase May 5, 1960, and plus a 3-cents per hour increase May 5, 1961, under a three-year contract. This offer was first made April 28.

"The final offer of the IBOP committee was a package increase, including several additional paid holidays, amounting to 26 cents per hour, effective immediately. We necessarily refused such an offer that would mean the liquidation of all of our companies within a year.

"The refusal by the IBOP of our offer is incredible in view of the fact they recently signed an agreement with 6 companies manufacturing china, calling for increases totaling 8½ cents per hour, while our offer amounted to 12 cents. The china manufacturers have enjoyed reasonable prosperity in recent years while the semi-vitreous plants, faced with Japanese competition, have shown an overall loss during the last five years of operation.

"Also the IBOP has recently signed a contract with the Patterson Foundry company calling for an immediate increase of 5 cents per hour and an additional 4 cents at the end of the year. Here again, this company is a subsidiary of an outstandingly successful corporation that has shown exceptional earnings in recent years.

"Along with the wage offer, we have agreed to practically all changes suggested by the IBOP in our present seniority and grievance provisions.

"The IBOP has refused to consider our suggestion that our final offer be submitted to a secret ballot by employes of all our companies. This being practically standard procedure in all strike situations."

Here is the statement from the IBOP:

"Our conference committee and our international officers have probed their proposition from all angles. At no time have they come up with anything comparable to the contracts we have signed with other firms which are members of the USPA.

"Some of their members contacted our committee members and our international officials hinting they would like to make individual contracts, but this is only another attempt to get our people back to work. We have told them we will meet with a single firm or a group if they want to sign a contract.

"Anything they've offered so far is intangible, mired so deep in technicalities that there is nothing tangible.

"In regard to the chinaware firms, they formerly were members of the USPA and they were supposed to be 'going on the rocks.' But since they pulled away from the USPA, they have granted wage increases, holidays and fringe benefits which the USPA has not matched so far.

"All the other firms do not take 10 per cent for the check-off, but the USPA insists upon it. They're going back to the union busting days of the 1900's and 1930's.

"As far as our people voting on an offer, by action of the international convention—which is the highest authority—our wage policy committee was formed. It has the authority to sign a contract, call a strike or revert it to a vote of the trade. They unanimously voted to strike.

"Throughout all of the negotiations and propositions, our committee has been 100 per cent unanimous in its actions. This morning, the committee gave a rising vote of thanks to the international officers for their leadership in the negotiations."

Trucker Cited In Near Crash During Arrest

A 25-year-old Pennsylvania trucker who forced a police cruiser across the medial strip of the W. 8th St. "super-road" stretch early today when a patrolman sought to arrest him for a traffic violation is due for a Municipal Court hearing on a reckless driving charge.

Patrolman E. R. Furgason said a truck driven by Robert Barber of Wampum R. D. 2 nearly collided wth the police car when he attempted to halt the trucker at 5:24 this morning on W. 8th St. at Chestnut St.

The patrolman said he observed Barber make an illegal left turn off Dresden Ave. onto Webber Way, turning "short" and on the wrong side of the safety island at the intersection. Pursuing Barber, he caught up with him about two blocks away, switched on the blinking red light of the cruiser and motioned to the trucker to pull to the curb, Furgason reported.

Instead of pulling to the right, Barber swung his truck to the left into the cruiser's traffic lane, forcing it across the medial strip into the eastbound lanes, Furgason said. Barber was released on a promise his employer will post a $31 bond for his court appearance.

Patrolman E. R. Furgason said a truck driven by Robert Barber of Wampum R. D. 2 nearly collided wth the police car when he attempted to halt the trucker at 5:24 this morning on W. 8th St. at Chestnut St.

The patrolman said he observed Barber make an illegal left turn off Dresden Ave. onto Webber Way, turning "short" and on the wrong side of the safety island at the intersection. Pursuing Barber, he caught up with him about two blocks away, switched on the blinking red light of the cruiser and motioned to the trucker to pull to the curb, Furgason reported.

Instead of pulling to the right, Barber swung his truck to the left into the cruiser's traffic lane, forcing it across the medial strip into the eastbound lanes, Furgason said. Barber was released on a promise his employer will post a $31 bond for his court appearance.

Ohio Must Do The Best It Can

The report to the governor on Ohio's mental hospital problem is a credit to its author, Jay W. Collins, executive director of Euclid-Glenville Hospital. It is good to know that Mr. Collins will follow through by serving as chairman of a governor's committee to act on recommendations for improvement.

One of the most helpful things which could be done has been hinted at by Gov. DiSalle—a system of reports to keep Ohio continuously informed and aware of its mental care problems.

Here is the weakness in mental hospitals—that they can be put out of the minds and beyond the personal concern of millions who have no occasion to know anything about them and no inclination to find out.

Their patients, moreover, are not like the patients in ordinary hospitals, who more frequently than not take it upon themselves to criticize the accommodations and the service and whose criticism often is solicited, to show the management where it could make improvements.

This is essentially the problem — this difficulty of keeping public attention focused on the state's mental hospitals. People must be jarred out of their indifference. They must be reminded repeatedly that here is a job the state must do as well as it can, a job that cannot be done properly unless everybody keeps an eye on it.

It is futile to believe there will be a time when mental illness will be thought of the same as physical illness. We have made progress in the direction of more humane and more intelligent care of the mentally ill. But there never can be the same attitude about patients in mental hospitals as there is about patients in other hospitals, even though we now know that many of them can be cured.

Ohioans are willing and eager to do the best they can to give all mental patients proper care; the issue is not whether but how. And the how will be found if the people of Ohio are kept closely informed of the problem and the progress being made toward solving it.

There simply is no other way to keep the problem in focus.

That Would Be The Day!

It is regrettable that Harry Truman and Dwight Eisenhower could not have sat down at the same table this week with Winston Churchill. Britain's Mr. John Bull would have enjoyed it as a tribute to him and Americans would have enjoyed it as reassurance about partisan politics.

The bad feeling that has kept Mr. Truman and his successor in the White House apart grows out of a shared conviction that each has spoken deliberate and malicious falsehoods about the other.

Without going into the details of what has been said, their countrymen can concede that much of what is said in partisan politics is partly or wholly false without feeling in the least that it ever should become a barrier between men who serve as president of the United States.

There eventually may come a day when no presidential candidate will be tempted to use loose talk for partisan advantage. There might even come a day when any presidential candidate who yielded to the temptation would be penalized, like an athlete tempted to stick his finger in an opponent's eye. "Unnecessary roughness" in politics is a serious offense against the U.S. public.

But the day will be a long time coming, and no one who is around now will live to enjoy it. Meanwhile, it would be reassuring if three men who have shared a great experience would get together once in a while to share ideas that must have come out of the experience.

Herbert Hoover, Harry Truman and Dwight Eisenhower are all elder statesmen now. Like Mr. John Bull, who has come here to pay a delayed visit, they are important for what they have done; they are no longer trying to make the team, catch-as-catch-can.

It's too bad that two of them aren't even on speaking terms. Makes some of us wonder if partisan politics needs to be that bitter.

Who Lost Besides Mrs. Luce?

If all personalities could be kept out of the discussion, it would be easier to understand what is at stake in the tactics used by questioning senators in the process of cross-examining Clare Boothe Luce before confirming her appointment as ambassador to Brazil.

She is not the first presidential appointee to be combed over. Another appointee—Admiral Strauss as secretary of commerce—has been in the pillory for months, at the mercy of senators who do not like an administrative decision he made when he was chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

When Potter Stewart was appointed to the U.S. Supreme Court, senatorial critics of recent Supreme Court decisions demanded his views on the propriety of decisions he had no part in making.

When Charles E. Wilson was appointed to be secretary of defense, the President's political opponents served notice of their animosity by putting him in the pillory for the alleged crime of being a successful businessman.

One of the critical stresses of the federal government has become the disinclination of private citizens who otherwise would like to perform public service to undergo the ordeal of innuendo that can be staged at will by unfriendly senators. The Senate has been a handicap in securing topnotch citizens for public service.

There have been times when senators made it appear they resented the intrusion of private citizens into their political domain. Not only in the process of eliciting information about qualifications for public service but sometimes in the process of badgering witnesses before investigative committees, they have made no distinction between citizens of good repute and citizens of bad repute.

Whenever it appears that the motive is something more than to get information with bearing on fitness to serve in a public office, the suspicion arises that it is to hit a blow at the incumbent president who made the appointment. In the latest instance, Mrs. Luce was the secondary target of senatorial badgering. The primary target was the White House.

Promise Of Spring

The Crucible Steel Co.'s announcement of a $23 million expansion program is another of the promising signs of spring, pointing to an eventual economic harvest for the district.

Other encouraging "buds" range from the April spurt in building permits to the National Church Supply Co.'s move to build a new facility along Route 30 near Chester.

Plans for a new plant of the Pennsylvania Power Co. for the Shippingport area, preparation for a new storage tank facility at Chester, school construction at Pughtown and throughout the Beaver Local District, along with many other improvement and enlargement projects, point up continuing growth on many fronts.

Retarded production and strikes in some fields naturally are disappointing, but no one should overlook the natural, industrial and mercantile potentials of this district.

The men putting hard money into these programs are not just sentimentalists. They are casting a vote for our future as well as theirs. This willingness deserves a vote of confidence from all quarters.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Are golfers people? It's a question which is bringing on a war between golfers and nongolfers. A cold war in most places but a hot one in Asia.

In Singapore the city council says the game should be barred as a nonconstructive pursuit and a bad influence. "Golfers cannot be classified as "of the people,' " the Singaproe mayor has ruled. His idea seems to be that golfers should be thrown to the purple people eaters.

Hizzoner is wrong. Golf is a leveler of all classes. Nothing is more helpful to the common man than the spectacle of the plumber's helper making a sap of the rich country-club tycoon.

WE HAVE BEEN A GOLFER for years. It is our conclusion that the people who DON'T play are getting a break. They are assured of more happiness and contentment than players. Nine out of 10 golfers are morose, irritable and full of complaints. A new Asia which wants to better the lives of the underprivileged should let golfing classes wear themselves out and become nervous wrecks in the Saturday afternoon foursomes.

Not a "constructive pursuit"? Whoever said it was? Golf is constructive only for psychiatrists, corn doctors, nerve specialists, Scotch salesmen and the makers of arch supporters.

Singapore threatens to "eliminate golfers as a class" by taking over all golf courses. In these screwball days anything can happen. Russia may take the side of nongolfers and decree all divot-diggers to be at the bottom of the world's troubles. (This could develop into another issue requiring intercession by Hammarskjold.)

IT CAN LEAD to questions: "Are horse players people?" "Is getting the daily double a constructive pursuit?" "How about gin rummy, rasslin', horseshoe pitching and quiz show addicts?"

All we are sure of is that golfers can't be eliminated. Driven from the courses, they will still make a shambles of the living room and the backyard. Unhappy and grumbling, a golf addict will fight on to the end. He will always insist that, given a fair handicap, he can lick not only Singapore but all Asia.

THE CHICAGO HEADLINE which cut Casey Stengel to the quick, "SOX PLAY SECOND DIVISION CLUB, THE YANKS."

Nehru, accusing Red China of untruth in statements on violation of Tibet, says, "This is peculiarly distressing in a great nation, with thousands of years of culture behind it noted for restraint and polite behavior." That's getting off the fence for real at last.

And he adds, "It is deeply regretted that charges should be made by Red China which are entirely devoid of substance. Premier Chou En-lai himself told me he did not consider Tibet a province of China and that it was absurd to imagine China would force Communism on it."

Pullman Speedster of 1905 and Stoddard Dayton of 1912 won awards at Newark Antique Show, taking us back to boyhood when we owned a Stoddard Dayton of that vintage. It had isinglass rollup windshield, prestolite headlights, crank, etc. In winter we had to start it by squirting gasoline into open petcocks, holding a hot towel against manifold and cranking until exhaustion set in. But we thought it was a whiz.

Hope Mounts There Won't Be Steel Strike

By Victor Riesel

Early last Thursday morning Mrs. Truman packed some clothing for ex-President Harry, but the doughty ex-chief had a few chores before he bounced out the door, Washington-bound. He had to place an important telephone call.

Victor Riesel

He asked the operator for the Hampshire House and Steel Union leader David McDonald's suite. It was "Dave" and "Harry" and "give them hell" and "good luck" in the coming clash with those steel tycoons.

Harry Truman was being consistent. Some seven years ago he had put in a similar call to the president of the United Steel Workers of America. There was bitter crisis in the air. "Harry," President of the United States, told his good friend, "Phil" Murray, not to worry. The government, the White House and the President were solidly behind the union.

THEY SURE WERE. Mr. Truman seized the steel mills. But last Thursday all Mr. Truman could offer was his friendship as the steel union wage policy committee was preparing its demands. Today with the White House officially neutral, the big steel union and the sprawling steel industry face an unrefereed finish fight.

But in the highest government industry and labor quarters there is a growing feeling that there will not be a strike.

Deep in the sanctums where decisions are made, there is a feeling that the sides are not too far apart and that the union does not want a stoppage—really, sincerely.

All strike crisis settlements are actually a matter of pennies. But each penny here means an additional 30 million dollars a year in costs, says the steel industry—and the industry people are sort of putting themselves on record as saying that they are ready to offer a package of about 25 cents an hour more over three years.

Of this quarter, it is believed, about six cents an hour would be in cash each year—or about $2.40 a week straight time. That would bring the average steelworker's wages to $128.40 a week in three years. This would be the highest mass production average wage in world history. Good pay and a good victory for the union.

The industry people are saying among themselves that the union is ready to settle for about 30 cents an hour more—with a quarter of it in cash over a three-year contract. This would bring the steelworkers' average wage to $3.28 an hour—or $131.20 a week straight time.

WITH THE ENTIRE industry and the union apparently just some 150 million dollars apart, give a few million here and there, the money does not seem to be the obstacle.

The industry spokesmen will be adamant up to the midnight deadline, June 30, when the contracts expire. But on the few pennies, they are expected to yield.

However, they are ready to fight for changes in the contract. They want the union to give up some of its cost-of-living increase rights. This clause means that when the cost-of-living index goes up a point, wages go up a penny. The union will fight this, you can bet.

But on this issue the industry will not stand so pat that a strike would spurt from the deadlock. There also is something called "Section 2-B" in the steel agreement of 1956. It says that "practices that have been in effect will remain in effect for the life of the contract."

In the past arguments over this section, the companies have lost to the union under arbitrators' decisions that the clause prevents the cutting of departmental or operational crews—the size of the working staffs. The companies have said that the clause really should refer only to wages, hours and working conditions.

The industry position is that this section keeps it from making "technological changes" as swiftly as the steel mills could. This, the industry charges, costs it 180 million dollars a year. If they can save some of this money, they say, they're willing to pay more.

If a strike does come, many believe it will result from the fight over the speed of automation. But the insiders say it can be solved without a Univac. The human brain will solve humanity's problems. In steel, too.

That Extra Something

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

The two aging men out of the history books who visited Washington this week—Harry S. Truman and Sir Winston Churchill—had in good measure what any leader of history needs as a minimum: courage, vision, and determination.

Some never had much more than that. Others had something extra: flamboyance, or extravagance, or daring, or recklessness, or cruelty, or cunning, or patience or great compassion.

Both Truman and Churchill had an extra something—call it an attitude—which set the tone of their leadership in such a way that it symbolized the spirit of their countrymen at a time of great trouble.

Churchill, who worked under more terrible handicaps, will surely hold the larger place in history. But Truman, responding to the less glittering requirements of his time, shaped and changed the world, too.

Churchill, by his mastery of Britain's greatest pride, its language, articulated for the masses of his countrymen their reactions to terror and barbarism.

He did more than that. He became their rallying point.

The nobility of his phrasing—so plain and understandable that all could identify themselves with him—gave Britons a sense of historic mission.

If any man in history can be said to have carried his people to victory with him on the sheer strength of his indomitable and incorruptible spirit, it was Churchill.

Truman had tone of a different kind, but only in details. Less colorful. That was sure. Less articulate, too. But his attitude was the same.

He was never able by the magic of his language—for he lacked the knowledge, the feeling and the mastery of Churchill in that field—to lift his people to heights that exceeded their own imagining.

But then, of course, Truman never had to. His problems were different and he did not have to arouse his country from its shattered ruins, to confront its crises.

Nevertheless, many millions of his fellow Americans were able in one way or another to identify themselves with him.

He was a plain, unpretentious man, self-made, self-confident, with a quick temper, a quick response to danger, and a profound sense of the importance of remaining free.

With this natural and well-understood foundation, what Truman symbolized when danger from the Soviet Union came was America's own historic conception of itself: A strong land which wishes no ill will to anyone, will endure pressure but only up to a point, is willing to fight for what it believes is right, and confidently believes in the ability of human beings to achieve a good life if given a chance.

There was a measure of self-interest in this country's willingness, under Truman's leadership, to pump billions of dollars in economic aid into Western Europe. It helped stop the onrush of communism.

But there were also sympathy and concern for both the welfare and the freedom of the West Europeans. They were given another chance, at American expense, to achieve a good life.

When Stalin began his first post-war pressure on Greece and Turkey, Truman unhesitatingly reversed the whole historic course of America's peacetime isolationism by rushing aid to the Greeks and Turks.

This action was more than an historic reversal of American foreign policy. Through it Truman acknowledged and accepted for the United States the responsibility thrust upon it by the second World War. The immediate effect was to stop communism in southern Europe.

When next Stalin tried his luck with the Berlin blockade, he was thwarted again with the bold and imaginative Berlin airlift.

In all these things, which required American sacrifices, Truman had the support of his country. When Stalin for the last time in his life tested American willingness to go to any lengths to stop him, and let the Korean War begin, Truman answered instantly by taking the United States into war.

Communism was stopped cold. It was the last time the Reds tried direct aggression.

Herter Passes Test

By David Lawrence

Secretary Faces Newsmen's Probing

PARIS

Secretary of State Christian Herter handled himself with the press in Paris in a manner that would have done credit to any veteran in public life.

David Lawrence

Every one of the newsmen present wondered beforehand how Mr. Herter would conduct himself under the penetrating ordeal of questions that are usually flung at a secretary of state. The new secretary seemed ahead of the game all along. He didn't hesitate once for an answer. He said "no" pleasantly and with an engaging smile. He explained persuasively his reasons for not answering a question and stuck to his position.

This correspondent couldn't help think how much better off Ike would be at some of his press conferences if he adopted the same technique. For, while the newsmen have a "right to know," there is no good reason why the interests of the American government should be subordinated to the curiosity of the press, without regard to the damage that might be done.

Certainly nothing should be kept secret which the people are entitled to know — and that includes almost everything imaginable — but there is nothing in the rule book that says the information must always be available in time for the next edition of the American press.

IT'S THE TIMING, therefore, on which discretion should and can be used. Mr. Herter wisely refrained from discussing the details of the so-called "package plan" to be presented next week in Geneva but this doesn't mean it will not be revealed at that time. Obviously there are good reasons for not publicizing the Allied position in advance of the actual negotiations. To do so not only means that the opposing politicians in every country would have a chance to belittle or ridicule the proposals but it also gives our adversaries a chance to read about them and pile up obstacles which could imperil the negotiations at Geneva.

Domestic politics may make its demands for the fullest publicity but international negotiations ought to be respected as a higher consideration for which allowance should be made by both the press and the politicians.

Secretary Herter's performance before the correspondents was, indeed, encouraging. Modestly, courteously, yet intelligently and firmly, the new head of the Department of State expressed the American position and discreetly refrained from saying anything that could in the slightest degree prejudice the position of the other foreign ministers who had sat with him in the Paris conferences.

THE CORRESPONDENTS tried in every way to find out if there were differences between the American point of view and that of the Allies and whether the positions to be taken at Geneva were firm or were merely the basis for "fall back" proposals later on.

Mr. Herter handled all such questions with the utmost skill and yet the newsmen felt they had not been dealt any false cards. The total impression which Mr. Herter gave was one of absolute sincerity and seriousness. He handled with proper diplomatic reserve even the questions related to Soviet intentions.

The first glimpse of Mr. Herter in action at an international conference was important not so much for the authoritative outline that he was able to give of what the Western foreign ministers meeting was about but because it revealed a new secretary of state capable of carrying on the traditions of his predecessors. For the more the American position in international affairs is studied, the more it becomes apparent that the United States stands dedicated to its ideals and will not forsake any of its allies in the pursuit of the goals of the free world.

Secretary Herter made a ten-strike here in his first contacts with the press and America can be proud of the man who has taken over the reins from the heroic hands of John Foster Dulles.

Mounties On Way Out?

By Eric Downton

OTTAWA

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police may be headed for a slump in business.

For all its glamor and movie-bedecked tradition, the mounties are a "hire-and-rental" organization. A federal force, they financially depend heavily on contracts for routine police work made between the federal government and the provincial administrations.

The financial terms between Ottawa and the provincial capitals are now being reviewed and some provinces are considering the possibility of dropping out.

Also the force is currently the target of growing public criticism. It is variously accused of highhandedness, of trying to be a law unto itself, or a "Gestapo-mentality" and of unnecessary brutality especially in dealing with Indians and Eskimos.

IN THE ARCTIC, by tradition a special field of mountie activity, the federal government has recently begun to reduce the force's role. This follows sharp criticism by civilian Arctic experts, including officials of the Canadian Northern Affairs Department, of the mounties' attitude in the far north.

Provincial hesitations about renewal of mountie contracts are caused by the federal government's action in its dispute with Newfoundland's controversial Premier, "Joey" Smallwood. The federal Cabinet, led by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, dislikes the tough anti-union legislation just enacted by the Newfoundland leader.

When Smallwood asked for mountie reinforcements to deal with strike violence the federal Cabinet refused to send them. The mounties' chief, Commissioner Leonard Nicholson, resigned in protest over the federal government's action. Premier Smallwood is suing the federal authorities for breach of contract.

The Diefenbaker Cabinet's refusal of reinforcements has been widely criticized from coast to coast. Now eight provinces with mountie contracts are due to renegotiate these agreements, which expire next year, and some provincial authorities wonder if it will be worthwhile exposing themselves to this kind of Ottawa pressure.

ONTARIO AND QUEBEC are the two provinces without mountie contracts. The other eight, with 120 municipalities sharing costs, pay the mounties to enforce the law. The provinces pay 40 per cent of the bill, Ottawa the other 60 per cent. Any contract cancellations would have a serious effect on the mounties' structure. The force has a uniformed strength of 5,111, a yearly budget of 48 million dollars.

Critics of mountie behavior in the far north include Douglas Wilkinson, sometimes described as "the best known white man in the Arctic." He recently resigned from the Northern Affairs Department, where he was its leading Eskimo administrator, following a long policy dispute.

Another is Farley Mowat, author of the best seller "People of the Deer," and Canada's outstanding writer on the Arctic. He, like Wilkinson, alleges the mounties allowed isolated groups of Eskimos to starve to death through strict application of bureaucratic regulations.

Sen. James Gladstone, a full-blooded Blackfoot and the first Indian to be appointed to the Canadian Senate, has accused the mounted police of beating men and women during recent Indian anti-government demonstrations on the Six Nations Reserve at Ohsweken, Ont. The customary official denials of such charges have been vauge and unconvincing.

The Eiffel Tower

The grande dame of Paris turns 70 this spring. And she's due for a new beauty treatment in 1960.

This is, of course, the Eiffel Tower, one of the world's best-known landmarks. Erected by engineer Gustave Eiffel as a temporary curiosity for the Paris Exposition of 1889, the 984-foot spire remains so sturdy that none of its steel sections has had to be replaced.

A fresh coat of "cognac-brown" paint is applied every seven years. The last went on in 1953. It takes a crew of daredevils about two years to complete the job. Work is suspended during the heavy tourist season lest a bucket of paint drop on a visitor.

The tower was two years building. As the skeleton grew skyward from four massive feet marking the cardinal points of the compass, M. Eiffel won no popularity contests in Paris. A petition was circulated against the "monstrous and useless" thing. Writer Guy de Maupassant's sensibilities were so outraged he urged the populace to "smash this tall, lanky pyramid, this assemblage of iron ladders."

Despite the hue and cry, the framework was finished in March 1889. Paris was surging with visitors on June 10 when M. Eiffel inaugurated the guest book with a trembling hand: "Ten minutes before noon. The public enters—at last."

It is futile to believe there will be a time when mental illness will be thought of the same as physical illness. We have made progress in the direction of more humane and more intelligent care of the mentally ill. But there never can be the same attitude about patients in mental hospitals as there is about patients in other hospitals, even though we now know that many of them can be cured.

Ohioans are willing and eager to do the best they can to give all mental patients proper care; the issue is not whether but how. And the how will be found if the people of Ohio are kept closely informed of the problem and the progress being made toward solving it.

There simply is no other way to keep the problem in focus.

That Would Be The Day!

It is regrettable that Harry Truman and Dwight Eisenhower could not have sat down at the same table this week with Winston Churchill. Britain's Mr. John Bull would have enjoyed it as a tribute to him and Americans would have enjoyed it as reassurance about partisan politics.

The bad feeling that has kept Mr. Truman and his successor in the White House apart grows out of a shared conviction that each has spoken deliberate and malicious falsehoods about the other.

Without going into the details of what has been said, their countrymen can concede that much of what is said in partisan politics is partly or wholly false without feeling in the least that it ever should become a barrier between men who serve as president of the United States.

There eventually may come a day when no presidential candidate will be tempted to use loose talk for partisan advantage. There might even come a day when any presidential candidate who yielded to the temptation would be penalized, like an athlete tempted to stick his finger in an opponent's eye. "Unnecessary roughness" in politics is a serious offense against the U.S. public.

But the day will be a long time coming, and no one who is around now will live to enjoy it. Meanwhile, it would be reassuring if three men who have shared a great experience would get together once in a while to share ideas that must have come out of the experience.

Herbert Hoover, Harry Truman and Dwight Eisenhower are all elder statesmen now. Like Mr. John Bull, who has come here to pay a delayed visit, they are important for what they have done; they are no longer trying to make the team, catch-as-catch-can.

It's too bad that two of them aren't even on speaking terms. Makes some of us wonder if partisan politics needs to be that bitter.

Who Lost Besides Mrs. Luce?

If all personalities could be kept out of the discussion, it would be easier to understand what is at stake in the tactics used by questioning senators in the process of cross-examining Clare Boothe Luce before confirming her appointment as ambassador to Brazil.

She is not the first presidential appointee to be combed over. Another appointee—Admiral Strauss as secretary of commerce—has been in the pillory for months, at the mercy of senators who do not like an administrative decision he made when he was chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

When Potter Stewart was appointed to the U.S. Supreme Court, senatorial critics of recent Supreme Court decisions demanded his views on the propriety of decisions he had no part in making.

When Charles E. Wilson was appointed to be secretary of defense, the President's political opponents served notice of their animosity by putting him in the pillory for the alleged crime of being a successful businessman.

One of the critical stresses of the federal government has become the disinclination of private citizens who otherwise would like to perform public service to undergo the ordeal of innuendo that can be staged at will by unfriendly senators. The Senate has been a handicap in securing topnotch citizens for public service.

There have been times when senators made it appear they resented the intrusion of private citizens into their political domain. Not only in the process of eliciting information about qualifications for public service but sometimes in the process of badgering witnesses before investigative committees, they have made no distinction between citizens of good repute and citizens of bad repute.

Whenever it appears that the motive is something more than to get information with bearing on fitness to serve in a public office, the suspicion arises that it is to hit a blow at the incumbent president who made the appointment. In the latest instance, Mrs. Luce was the secondary target of senatorial badgering. The primary target was the White House.

Promise Of Spring

The Crucible Steel Co.'s announcement of a $23 million expansion program is another of the promising signs of spring, pointing to an eventual economic harvest for the district.

Other encouraging "buds" range from the April spurt in building permits to the National Church Supply Co.'s move to build a new facility along Route 30 near Chester.

Plans for a new plant of the Pennsylvania Power Co. for the Shippingport area, preparation for a new storage tank facility at Chester, school construction at Pughtown and throughout the Beaver Local District, along with many other improvement and enlargement projects, point up continuing growth on many fronts.

Retarded production and strikes in some fields naturally are disappointing, but no one should overlook the natural, industrial and mercantile potentials of this district.

The men putting hard money into these programs are not just sentimentalists. They are casting a vote for our future as well as theirs. This willingness deserves a vote of confidence from all quarters.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Are golfers people? It's a question which is bringing on a war between golfers and nongolfers. A cold war in most places but a hot one in Asia.

In Singapore the city council says the game should be barred as a nonconstructive pursuit and a bad influence. "Golfers cannot be classified as "of the people,' " the Singaproe mayor has ruled. His idea seems to be that golfers should be thrown to the purple people eaters.

Hizzoner is wrong. Golf is a leveler of all classes. Nothing is more helpful to the common man than the spectacle of the plumber's helper making a sap of the rich country-club tycoon.

WE HAVE BEEN A GOLFER for years. It is our conclusion that the people who DON'T play are getting a break. They are assured of more happiness and contentment than players. Nine out of 10 golfers are morose, irritable and full of complaints. A new Asia which wants to better the lives of the underprivileged should let golfing classes wear themselves out and become nervous wrecks in the Saturday afternoon foursomes.

Not a "constructive pursuit"? Whoever said it was? Golf is constructive only for psychiatrists, corn doctors, nerve specialists, Scotch salesmen and the makers of arch supporters.

Singapore threatens to "eliminate golfers as a class" by taking over all golf courses. In these screwball days anything can happen. Russia may take the side of nongolfers and decree all divot-diggers to be at the bottom of the world's troubles. (This could develop into another issue requiring intercession by Hammarskjold.)

IT CAN LEAD to questions: "Are horse players people?" "Is getting the daily double a constructive pursuit?" "How about gin rummy, rasslin', horseshoe pitching and quiz show addicts?"

All we are sure of is that golfers can't be eliminated. Driven from the courses, they will still make a shambles of the living room and the backyard. Unhappy and grumbling, a golf addict will fight on to the end. He will always insist that, given a fair handicap, he can lick not only Singapore but all Asia.

THE CHICAGO HEADLINE which cut Casey Stengel to the quick, "SOX PLAY SECOND DIVISION CLUB, THE YANKS."

Nehru, accusing Red China of untruth in statements on violation of Tibet, says, "This is peculiarly distressing in a great nation, with thousands of years of culture behind it noted for restraint and polite behavior." That's getting off the fence for real at last.

And he adds, "It is deeply regretted that charges should be made by Red China which are entirely devoid of substance. Premier Chou En-lai himself told me he did not consider Tibet a province of China and that it was absurd to imagine China would force Communism on it."

Pullman Speedster of 1905 and Stoddard Dayton of 1912 won awards at Newark Antique Show, taking us back to boyhood when we owned a Stoddard Dayton of that vintage. It had isinglass rollup windshield, prestolite headlights, crank, etc. In winter we had to start it by squirting gasoline into open petcocks, holding a hot towel against manifold and cranking until exhaustion set in. But we thought it was a whiz.

Hope Mounts There Won't Be Steel Strike

By Victor Riesel

Early last Thursday morning Mrs. Truman packed some clothing for ex-President Harry, but the doughty ex-chief had a few chores before he bounced out the door, Washington-bound. He had to place an important telephone call.

Victor Riesel

He asked the operator for the Hampshire House and Steel Union leader David McDonald's suite. It was "Dave" and "Harry" and "give them hell" and "good luck" in the coming clash with those steel tycoons.

Harry Truman was being consistent. Some seven years ago he had put in a similar call to the president of the United Steel Workers of America. There was bitter crisis in the air. "Harry," President of the United States, told his good friend, "Phil" Murray, not to worry. The government, the White House and the President were solidly behind the union.

THEY SURE WERE. Mr. Truman seized the steel mills. But last Thursday all Mr. Truman could offer was his friendship as the steel union wage policy committee was preparing its demands. Today with the White House officially neutral, the big steel union and the sprawling steel industry face an unrefereed finish fight.

But in the highest government industry and labor quarters there is a growing feeling that there will not be a strike.

Deep in the sanctums where decisions are made, there is a feeling that the sides are not too far apart and that the union does not want a stoppage—really, sincerely.

All strike crisis settlements are actually a matter of pennies. But each penny here means an additional 30 million dollars a year in costs, says the steel industry—and the industry people are sort of putting themselves on record as saying that they are ready to offer a package of about 25 cents an hour more over three years.

Of this quarter, it is believed, about six cents an hour would be in cash each year—or about $2.40 a week straight time. That would bring the average steelworker's wages to $128.40 a week in three years. This would be the highest mass production average wage in world history. Good pay and a good victory for the union.

The industry people are saying among themselves that the union is ready to settle for about 30 cents an hour more—with a quarter of it in cash over a three-year contract. This would bring the steelworkers' average wage to $3.28 an hour—or $131.20 a week straight time.

WITH THE ENTIRE industry and the union apparently just some 150 million dollars apart, give a few million here and there, the money does not seem to be the obstacle.

The industry spokesmen will be adamant up to the midnight deadline, June 30, when the contracts expire. But on the few pennies, they are expected to yield.

However, they are ready to fight for changes in the contract. They want the union to give up some of its cost-of-living increase rights. This clause means that when the cost-of-living index goes up a point, wages go up a penny. The union will fight this, you can bet.

But on this issue the industry will not stand so pat that a strike would spurt from the deadlock. There also is something called "Section 2-B" in the steel agreement of 1956. It says that "practices that have been in effect will remain in effect for the life of the contract."

In the past arguments over this section, the companies have lost to the union under arbitrators' decisions that the clause prevents the cutting of departmental or operational crews—the size of the working staffs. The companies have said that the clause really should refer only to wages, hours and working conditions.

The industry position is that this section keeps it from making "technological changes" as swiftly as the steel mills could. This, the industry charges, costs it 180 million dollars a year. If they can save some of this money, they say, they're willing to pay more.

If a strike does come, many believe it will result from the fight over the speed of automation. But the insiders say it can be solved without a Univac. The human brain will solve humanity's problems. In steel, too.

That Extra Something

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

The two aging men out of the history books who visited Washington this week—Harry S. Truman and Sir Winston Churchill—had in good measure what any leader of history needs as a minimum: courage, vision, and determination.

Some never had much more than that. Others had something extra: flamboyance, or extravagance, or daring, or recklessness, or cruelty, or cunning, or patience or great compassion.

Both Truman and Churchill had an extra something—call it an attitude—which set the tone of their leadership in such a way that it symbolized the spirit of their countrymen at a time of great trouble.

Churchill, who worked under more terrible handicaps, will surely hold the larger place in history. But Truman, responding to the less glittering requirements of his time, shaped and changed the world, too.

Churchill, by his mastery of Britain's greatest pride, its language, articulated for the masses of his countrymen their reactions to terror and barbarism.

He did more than that. He became their rallying point.

The nobility of his phrasing—so plain and understandable that all could identify themselves with him—gave Britons a sense of historic mission.

If any man in history can be said to have carried his people to victory with him on the sheer strength of his indomitable and incorruptible spirit, it was Churchill.

Truman had tone of a different kind, but only in details. Less colorful. That was sure. Less articulate, too. But his attitude was the same.

He was never able by the magic of his language—for he lacked the knowledge, the feeling and the mastery of Churchill in that field—to lift his people to heights that exceeded their own imagining.

But then, of course, Truman never had to. His problems were different and he did not have to arouse his country from its shattered ruins, to confront its crises.

Nevertheless, many millions of his fellow Americans were able in one way or another to identify themselves with him.

He was a plain, unpretentious man, self-made, self-confident, with a quick temper, a quick response to danger, and a profound sense of the importance of remaining free.

With this natural and well-understood foundation, what Truman symbolized when danger from the Soviet Union came was America's own historic conception of itself: A strong land which wishes no ill will to anyone, will endure pressure but only up to a point, is willing to fight for what it believes is right, and confidently believes in the ability of human beings to achieve a good life if given a chance.

There was a measure of self-interest in this country's willingness, under Truman's leadership, to pump billions of dollars in economic aid into Western Europe. It helped stop the onrush of communism.

But there were also sympathy and concern for both the welfare and the freedom of the West Europeans. They were given another chance, at American expense, to achieve a good life.

When Stalin began his first post-war pressure on Greece and Turkey, Truman unhesitatingly reversed the whole historic course of America's peacetime isolationism by rushing aid to the Greeks and Turks.

This action was more than an historic reversal of American foreign policy. Through it Truman acknowledged and accepted for the United States the responsibility thrust upon it by the second World War. The immediate effect was to stop communism in southern Europe.

When next Stalin tried his luck with the Berlin blockade, he was thwarted again with the bold and imaginative Berlin airlift.

In all these things, which required American sacrifices, Truman had the support of his country. When Stalin for the last time in his life tested American willingness to go to any lengths to stop him, and let the Korean War begin, Truman answered instantly by taking the United States into war.

Communism was stopped cold. It was the last time the Reds tried direct aggression.

Herter Passes Test

By David Lawrence

Secretary Faces Newsmen's Probing

PARIS

Secretary of State Christian Herter handled himself with the press in Paris in a manner that would have done credit to any veteran in public life.

David Lawrence

Every one of the newsmen present wondered beforehand how Mr. Herter would conduct himself under the penetrating ordeal of questions that are usually flung at a secretary of state. The new secretary seemed ahead of the game all along. He didn't hesitate once for an answer. He said "no" pleasantly and with an engaging smile. He explained persuasively his reasons for not answering a question and stuck to his position.

This correspondent couldn't help think how much better off Ike would be at some of his press conferences if he adopted the same technique. For, while the newsmen have a "right to know," there is no good reason why the interests of the American government should be subordinated to the curiosity of the press, without regard to the damage that might be done.

Certainly nothing should be kept secret which the people are entitled to know — and that includes almost everything imaginable — but there is nothing in the rule book that says the information must always be available in time for the next edition of the American press.

IT'S THE TIMING, therefore, on which discretion should and can be used. Mr. Herter wisely refrained from discussing the details of the so-called "package plan" to be presented next week in Geneva but this doesn't mean it will not be revealed at that time. Obviously there are good reasons for not publicizing the Allied position in advance of the actual negotiations. To do so not only means that the opposing politicians in every country would have a chance to belittle or ridicule the proposals but it also gives our adversaries a chance to read about them and pile up obstacles which could imperil the negotiations at Geneva.

Domestic politics may make its demands for the fullest publicity but international negotiations ought to be respected as a higher consideration for which allowance should be made by both the press and the politicians.

Secretary Herter's performance before the correspondents was, indeed, encouraging. Modestly, courteously, yet intelligently and firmly, the new head of the Department of State expressed the American position and discreetly refrained from saying anything that could in the slightest degree prejudice the position of the other foreign ministers who had sat with him in the Paris conferences.

THE CORRESPONDENTS tried in every way to find out if there were differences between the American point of view and that of the Allies and whether the positions to be taken at Geneva were firm or were merely the basis for "fall back" proposals later on.

Mr. Herter handled all such questions with the utmost skill and yet the newsmen felt they had not been dealt any false cards. The total impression which Mr. Herter gave was one of absolute sincerity and seriousness. He handled with proper diplomatic reserve even the questions related to Soviet intentions.

The first glimpse of Mr. Herter in action at an international conference was important not so much for the authoritative outline that he was able to give of what the Western foreign ministers meeting was about but because it revealed a new secretary of state capable of carrying on the traditions of his predecessors. For the more the American position in international affairs is studied, the more it becomes apparent that the United States stands dedicated to its ideals and will not forsake any of its allies in the pursuit of the goals of the free world.

Secretary Herter made a ten-strike here in his first contacts with the press and America can be proud of the man who has taken over the reins from the heroic hands of John Foster Dulles.

Mounties On Way Out?

By Eric Downton

OTTAWA

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police may be headed for a slump in business.

For all its glamor and movie-bedecked tradition, the mounties are a "hire-and-rental" organization. A federal force, they financially depend heavily on contracts for routine police work made between the federal government and the provincial administrations.

The financial terms between Ottawa and the provincial capitals are now being reviewed and some provinces are considering the possibility of dropping out.

Also the force is currently the target of growing public criticism. It is variously accused of highhandedness, of trying to be a law unto itself, or a "Gestapo-mentality" and of unnecessary brutality especially in dealing with Indians and Eskimos.

IN THE ARCTIC, by tradition a special field of mountie activity, the federal government has recently begun to reduce the force's role. This follows sharp criticism by civilian Arctic experts, including officials of the Canadian Northern Affairs Department, of the mounties' attitude in the far north.

Provincial hesitations about renewal of mountie contracts are caused by the federal government's action in its dispute with Newfoundland's controversial Premier, "Joey" Smallwood. The federal Cabinet, led by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, dislikes the tough anti-union legislation just enacted by the Newfoundland leader.

When Smallwood asked for mountie reinforcements to deal with strike violence the federal Cabinet refused to send them. The mounties' chief, Commissioner Leonard Nicholson, resigned in protest over the federal government's action. Premier Smallwood is suing the federal authorities for breach of contract.

The Diefenbaker Cabinet's refusal of reinforcements has been widely criticized from coast to coast. Now eight provinces with mountie contracts are due to renegotiate these agreements, which expire next year, and some provincial authorities wonder if it will be worthwhile exposing themselves to this kind of Ottawa pressure.

ONTARIO AND QUEBEC are the two provinces without mountie contracts. The other eight, with 120 municipalities sharing costs, pay the mounties to enforce the law. The provinces pay 40 per cent of the bill, Ottawa the other 60 per cent. Any contract cancellations would have a serious effect on the mounties' structure. The force has a uniformed strength of 5,111, a yearly budget of 48 million dollars.

Critics of mountie behavior in the far north include Douglas Wilkinson, sometimes described as "the best known white man in the Arctic." He recently resigned from the Northern Affairs Department, where he was its leading Eskimo administrator, following a long policy dispute.

Another is Farley Mowat, author of the best seller "People of the Deer," and Canada's outstanding writer on the Arctic. He, like Wilkinson, alleges the mounties allowed isolated groups of Eskimos to starve to death through strict application of bureaucratic regulations.

Sen. James Gladstone, a full-blooded Blackfoot and the first Indian to be appointed to the Canadian Senate, has accused the mounted police of beating men and women during recent Indian anti-government demonstrations on the Six Nations Reserve at Ohsweken, Ont. The customary official denials of such charges have been vauge and unconvincing.

The Eiffel Tower

The grande dame of Paris turns 70 this spring. And she's due for a new beauty treatment in 1960.

This is, of course, the Eiffel Tower, one of the world's best-known landmarks. Erected by engineer Gustave Eiffel as a temporary curiosity for the Paris Exposition of 1889, the 984-foot spire remains so sturdy that none of its steel sections has had to be replaced.

A fresh coat of "cognac-brown" paint is applied every seven years. The last went on in 1953. It takes a crew of daredevils about two years to complete the job. Work is suspended during the heavy tourist season lest a bucket of paint drop on a visitor.

The tower was two years building. As the skeleton grew skyward from four massive feet marking the cardinal points of the compass, M. Eiffel won no popularity contests in Paris. A petition was circulated against the "monstrous and useless" thing. Writer Guy de Maupassant's sensibilities were so outraged he urged the populace to "smash this tall, lanky pyramid, this assemblage of iron ladders."

Despite the hue and cry, the framework was finished in March 1889. Paris was surging with visitors on June 10 when M. Eiffel inaugurated the guest book with a trembling hand: "Ten minutes before noon. The public enters—at last."

School Issues At Stake

Today's Vote May Effect Bills Before Legislature

By DUANE CROFT
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Tuesday's primaries could have a direct effect on a group of bills in the hopper of the 103rd Ohio General Assembly.

Many communities throughout the state, both urban and rural, will be voting on school bond or tax levies. Under Ohio law, they must garner 60 per cent of the vote to pass.

Educators and citizens who promote better schools long have felt this requirement is one of the biggest stumbling blocks to their efforts to provide sound educational opportunities for their children.

If many of Tuesday's issues are defeated, there probably will be a good deal of pressure exerted on the Legislature to speed action on no fewer than five measures that would remove the stumbling block by permitting the passage of such levies by a simple majority.

Four of the five legislative proposals apply to schools alone. One has passed the Senate by a 25-1 vote and is awaiting referral to committee in the House.

The other three, one introduced by Rep. Donald C. Nist Jr. (D-Stark), have been sent to the House Elections and Federal Relations Committee but hearings have not started on them.

Since the Senate one already has passed, it would be a simple matter for House leaders to tie the whole group together and push the resulting bill through the legislative mill and on to the floor of the House.

Rep. Dandy Devine (D-Lucas) is both a co-sponsor of two of the bills in the House and chairman of the elections committee to which they have been referred. That should help their chances considerably.

The fifth bill that could apply would affect all tax levies for any political subdivision, which includes school districts. It was introduced by Rep. Bernice K. MacKenzie (D-Stark), who found in her research on the subject that state requirements range from 55 per cent on various types of levy votes to 66 2-3 per cent on a levy for a township and village town hall or memorial.

Noting that majority-vote proposals had been introduced on library, recreation and civil defense levies as well as the school ones, Mrs. MacKenzie said she believes the Legislature should go all the way and stop "discriminating" against certain levies.

The idea for more-than-majority approval stems from the depression days of the 1930s when taxpayers as well as governments were hard put to find the money for their needs. It was put into effect along with the reduction from 15 to 10 mills in the state constitutional limit on non-voted levies.

Some observers, however, think one or the other would have sufficed. The combination has proved a barrier to proper progress in good economic times, they say.

No Agreements Reached

Governor's Tax Program Faces Trouble In Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Most of Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's 365 - million - dollar tax tax program is in trouble in the Ohio Senate.

Fifteen of the 20 Democrats in the Senate discussed taxes for 90 minutes Monday night. The rest was absent. No agreements were reached.

Despite large amounts of information furnished senators, said Majority Leader Frank W. King (D-Lucas), many of the Democrats still professed ignorance as to why DiSalle needs the money his string of tax increases would produce.

King told newsmen he believes he "got it across" to the Democratic senators that the DiSalle tax program must be passed or the state's two-year budget cut to fit.

But, as a result of the caucus which broke up slightly after midnight, it may be impossible for King to set Senate floor votes this week on gasoline and cigarette tax increases. The House-approved tax measures provide increases of two cents a gallon on gasoline and two cents a pack on cigarettes.

The only tax measure which originated in the Senate is a bill to do away with many sales tax exemptions and produce an estimated 119 million dollars in the next two years.

With six votes needed to bring the bill out of the Senate's Taxation Committee, one vote still is needed to bring it to a doubtful fate on the Senate floor.

Sen. Charles J. Carney (D-Mahoning), while conceding no minds were changed in a weekend of study by Democratic senators, told newsmen:

"Don't worry, the bill will be coming out one of these days.

"And it will pass the Senate."

He declined to say where the needed votes will come from.

Compromises on the sales tax bill already have brought its estimated yield down from 195 to 119 millions in the next two years. King confirmed DiSalle's statement of last week that the end of the compromise road has been reached.

King said he stands with DiSalle in the firm position that the stamp system—which costs the state 12 million dollars a year—must be abolished in favor of a sort of gross receipts tax on retailers.

In face of suggestions that he drop his crusade for eliminating sales tax exemptions on machinery used directly in the production of consumer goods, King remained firm. He told newsmen:

"If that is done, it will be over my strenuous and personal objections."

A verdict in favor of the plaintiffs for $145.07 was returned by a jury Monday afternoon in the case of Mrs. Dorothy B. Hays of East Liverpool and the Nationwide Insurance Co. against Joseph L. Newlin, 516 Washington St., Wellsville.

Mrs. Hayes and the firm sued for this amount for damage to her car while driving on Commerce St., Wellsville, Oct. 6, 1954. Newlin was parked and opened his door and it was struck by the Hays car.

The jury included Margaret Locke and Mary Bulger of East Liverpool, Bess Paparodis, Herman Wooley, Ross Joseph, Reese Faulkner and Charleston Dunlap of Salem; Emerson Davis of Lisbon, Graydon Metz of Columbiana, Carl Dewitt of Salineville, Betty Wykoff of Beloit R. D. and Janet Colella of East Palestine.

Steel wage negotiations are under way

. . . and you are involved

Leaders of The United Steelworkers of America and representatives of the steel companies are sitting down to begin wage negotiations. Because the outcome of their talks will affect you, we want you to know the position of the steel companies.

What is the issue? And how does it involve you and your family?

The issue is simply this: the union leaders have asked for substantially higher wages and other benefits. The companies believe that higher employment costs mean more inflation.

Here are the facts:

1. "WAGE-PUSH" CAUSES INFLATION. As a result in inflation, our dollar has lost more than half its value. It now costs you $2.07 to buy what a dollar bought in 1940. The major cause of this inflation has been the steady rise in employment costs. More inflation involves you!

2. EMPLOYMENT COSTS HAVE OUTSTRIPPED SHIPMENTS PER MAN-HOUR. In the steel industry alone, employment costs over the past 18 years have risen almost ten times faster than shipments per man-hour worked. Thus steel prices have been forced up. If prices had not gone up the industry would have been bankrupt. High prices involve you!

3. THE STEELWORKER IS NOW HIGHLY PAID. The present average hourly earnings of steelworkers are far above the average for all industry. In January of this year it was already $3.03 per hour – 84c more than the average of all U. S. manufacturing.

4. STEEL FACES INCREASING COMPETITION. Because the costs of producing American steel have risen so high, it is becoming increasingly difficult for American steel companies to meet competition both here and abroad. This trend to foreign products or substitute materials has resulted in serious unemployment. Unemployment involves you!

5. ADEQUATE PROFITS ARE ESSENTIAL TO PROGRESS. Profit dollars are as important to employees as to employers. They are paid out to buy land, buildings, equipment for building and moderizing plants and for creating jobs. Over the past ten years steel profits have been too low. The increase in employment costs has far exceeded the increase in total profits earned.

The steelworkers are fine employees, and we are proud of them. They are, furthermore, already at the top of the industrial wage scale.

School Issues At Stake

Today's Vote May Effect Bills Before Legislature

By DUANE CROFT
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Tuesday's primaries could have a direct effect on a group of bills in the hopper of the 103rd Ohio General Assembly.

Many communities throughout the state, both urban and rural, will be voting on school bond or tax levies. Under Ohio law, they must garner 60 per cent of the vote to pass.

Educators and citizens who promote better schools long have felt this requirement is one of the biggest stumbling blocks to their efforts to provide sound educational opportunities for their children.

If many of Tuesday's issues are defeated, there probably will be a good deal of pressure exerted on the Legislature to speed action on no fewer than five measures that would remove the stumbling block by permitting the passage of such levies by a simple majority.

Four of the five legislative proposals apply to schools alone. One has passed the Senate by a 25-1 vote and is awaiting referral to committee in the House.

The other three, one introduced by Rep. Donald C. Nist Jr. (D-Stark), have been sent to the House Elections and Federal Relations Committee but hearings have not started on them.

Since the Senate one already has passed, it would be a simple matter for House leaders to tie the whole group together and push the resulting bill through the legislative mill and on to the floor of the House.

Rep. Dandy Devine (D-Lucas) is both a co-sponsor of two of the bills in the House and chairman of the elections committee to which they have been referred. That should help their chances considerably.

The fifth bill that could apply would affect all tax levies for any political subdivision, which includes school districts. It was introduced by Rep. Bernice K. MacKenzie (D-Stark), who found in her research on the subject that state requirements range from 55 per cent on various types of levy votes to 66 2-3 per cent on a levy for a township and village town hall or memorial.

Noting that majority-vote proposals had been introduced on library, recreation and civil defense levies as well as the school ones, Mrs. MacKenzie said she believes the Legislature should go all the way and stop "discriminating" against certain levies.

The idea for more-than-majority approval stems from the depression days of the 1930s when taxpayers as well as governments were hard put to find the money for their needs. It was put into effect along with the reduction from 15 to 10 mills in the state constitutional limit on non-voted levies.

Some observers, however, think one or the other would have sufficed. The combination has proved a barrier to proper progress in good economic times, they say.

No Agreements Reached

Governor's Tax Program Faces Trouble In Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Most of Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's 365 - million - dollar tax tax program is in trouble in the Ohio Senate.

Fifteen of the 20 Democrats in the Senate discussed taxes for 90 minutes Monday night. The rest was absent. No agreements were reached.

Despite large amounts of information furnished senators, said Majority Leader Frank W. King (D-Lucas), many of the Democrats still professed ignorance as to why DiSalle needs the money his string of tax increases would produce.

King told newsmen he believes he "got it across" to the Democratic senators that the DiSalle tax program must be passed or the state's two-year budget cut to fit.

But, as a result of the caucus which broke up slightly after midnight, it may be impossible for King to set Senate floor votes this week on gasoline and cigarette tax increases. The House-approved tax measures provide increases of two cents a gallon on gasoline and two cents a pack on cigarettes.

The only tax measure which originated in the Senate is a bill to do away with many sales tax exemptions and produce an estimated 119 million dollars in the next two years.

With six votes needed to bring the bill out of the Senate's Taxation Committee, one vote still is needed to bring it to a doubtful fate on the Senate floor.

Sen. Charles J. Carney (D-Mahoning), while conceding no minds were changed in a weekend of study by Democratic senators, told newsmen:

"Don't worry, the bill will be coming out one of these days.

"And it will pass the Senate."

He declined to say where the needed votes will come from.

Compromises on the sales tax bill already have brought its estimated yield down from 195 to 119 millions in the next two years. King confirmed DiSalle's statement of last week that the end of the compromise road has been reached.

King said he stands with DiSalle in the firm position that the stamp system—which costs the state 12 million dollars a year—must be abolished in favor of a sort of gross receipts tax on retailers.

In face of suggestions that he drop his crusade for eliminating sales tax exemptions on machinery used directly in the production of consumer goods, King remained firm. He told newsmen:

"If that is done, it will be over my strenuous and personal objections."

Steel wage negotiations are under way

. . . and you are involved

Leaders of The United Steelworkers of America and representatives of the steel companies are sitting down to begin wage negotiations. Because the outcome of their talks will affect you, we want you to know the position of the steel companies.

What is the issue? And how does it involve you and your family?

The issue is simply this: the union leaders have asked for substantially higher wages and other benefits. The companies believe that higher employment costs mean more inflation.

Here are the facts:

1. "WAGE-PUSH" CAUSES INFLATION. As a result in inflation, our dollar has lost more than half its value. It now costs you $2.07 to buy what a dollar bought in 1940. The major cause of this inflation has been the steady rise in employment costs. More inflation involves you!

2. EMPLOYMENT COSTS HAVE OUTSTRIPPED SHIPMENTS PER MAN-HOUR. In the steel industry alone, employment costs over the past 18 years have risen almost ten times faster than shipments per man-hour worked. Thus steel prices have been forced up. If prices had not gone up the industry would have been bankrupt. High prices involve you!

3. THE STEELWORKER IS NOW HIGHLY PAID. The present average hourly earnings of steelworkers are far above the average for all industry. In January of this year it was already $3.03 per hour – 84c more than the average of all U. S. manufacturing.

4. STEEL FACES INCREASING COMPETITION. Because the costs of producing American steel have risen so high, it is becoming increasingly difficult for American steel companies to meet competition both here and abroad. This trend to foreign products or substitute materials has resulted in serious unemployment. Unemployment involves you!

5. ADEQUATE PROFITS ARE ESSENTIAL TO PROGRESS. Profit dollars are as important to employees as to employers. They are paid out to buy land, buildings, equipment for building and moderizing plants and for creating jobs. Over the past ten years steel profits have been too low. The increase in employment costs has far exceeded the increase in total profits earned.

The steelworkers are fine employees, and we are proud of them. They are, furthermore, already at the top of the industrial wage scale.

Their present well-being justifies our position that the best solution for everyone – steelworkers included – is to hold the line in '59.

New Officer Begins Duties

SALINEVILLE — Tom Wilson, 21, of 304 High St. has begun duties as a special officer under a new police plan by which he will share regular duties with Police Chief Cleo Mellott.

Wilson, who resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson, was sworn in Friday by Mayor Karl Lindner to handle police duties during the day.

Chief Mellott has taken a reduction in pay in order to start work at a tile works near Port Homer. He will patrol at night, instead of being on duty 24 hours daily with assistance from special officers. Wilson, a brother-in-law of Chief Mellott, is employed at the McLain Fire Brick Division of the H. K. Porter Co.

Council last month studied a proposed plan by which special legislation would be drawn to provide for a second regular officer. But Council subsequently decided against establishing a permanent two-man force in favor of a more flexible plan by which a special officer would be assigned regular duties.

Postoffice Asks Public Help To Stamp Out Sales Of 'Smut'

Residents of East Liverpool and other communities throughout the nation can destroy the $500 million-a-year mail order business in obscenity—if they want to—Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today.

The postmaster pointed out the judgment of what is obscene rests finally with the conscience of citizens.

"We can clean up East Liverpool if enough become aware of the seriousness of the problem and use their influence to drive out the peddlers," he said.

Residents who receive unordered and unwanted mail soliciting the sale of filthy, lewd and lascivious films, slides, pictures and other obscene material should complain to the postal department, Brown said.

The protest can be made either by writing him and enclosing the objectionable material and the envelope that was used, along with a signed protest, or stopping personally at the office.

The material will be turned over to postal officials for an investigation. If their findings justify, an order banning the material from the mails will be issued. If the sender of obscene literature protests the ruling, the case can be taken to a U. S. District Court for a decision.

Where material is clearly pornographic, criminal action can be taken by local authorities with the cooperation of the department. Convictions provide for both fines and jail terms.

Although the department has intensified its campaign to clean up the mails, it has been opposed by those who reap huge profits from unrestricted mailings, and from some misguided individuals who unwittingly aid dealers in obscenity by confusing liberty with license, Brown said.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield said he feels the mail order traffic in obscenity is "one of the most serious moral and social problems" in the country.

"In spite of frustrations, legal complications and even court decisions, I have a responsibility to attempt to prevent the use of the mails for indecent material, and to seek indictments and prosecutions for such offenses." he said. "It seems to me this is the only method by which the dimensions of the problem can be established before the courts, Congress and the public."

Lisbon Road-E-O Winners Chosen

LISBON — Miss Linda Sue Fitzsimmons, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Fitzsimmons of Rogers R. D. 1, and James Pike, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Pike of Lisbon R. D. 4, won the Teenage Road-E-O held Saturday at the Fair Grounds by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

They will receive $25 Savings Bonds and plaques at a banquet Wednesday, May 13, at the First Christian Church. The dinner is being sponsored by Lisbon auto insurance agents.

The two will represent Lisbon in the state contest at Mason June 7.

State Highway Patrolman Norman Kanagy of Lisbon was the judge. Twenty-four were entered. Jack Davis, 17, of Lisbon R. D. 5 and Charles Faust, 16, of 513 E. Chestnut St. were third and fourth place winners. The contest is held by the Jaycees in cooperation with the Standard Oil Co.

State Asks Bids For 3 Road Jobs

The State Highway Department has asked for bids for three Columbiana County projects, including nearly a mile-long improvement of Route 30 in Hanover Township. The others are on Routes 518 and 172. Bids will be opened May 26.

The Route 30 job calls for a work length of 4,175 feet for a 4,000-foot improvement consisting of grading and paving with asphaltic concrete for a width of 24 feet and providing drainage facilities. The bidder will set the completion date.

The Route 172 job includes stretches in West and Hanover Townships and calls for bituminous treatment for 7.49 miles.

The work on Route 518 will be in Wayne and Madison Townships, for similar treatment for a distance of 5.49 miles. Completion date for Route 518 and Route 172 is Aug. 15.

Home Number Project Reset

St. Clair Township trustees Monday night rescheduled the start of a house numbering program for Friday night at 6:45.

The start of the program slated last week was delayed because of rain. Numbering of houses, long sought to improve mail delivery in the township, will begin along St. Clair and Harding Aves. and extend north.

Wilmer Bryson of Glenmoor asked the trustees if Glenmoor will be included in the program, and was advised the numbering will extend through Glenmoor and Calcutta.

A delegation from Mud Ln. was advised the widening of the street at their request will delay until next year the start of the blacktopping program for the lane.

New Officer Begins Duties

SALINEVILLE — Tom Wilson, 21, of 304 High St. has begun duties as a special officer under a new police plan by which he will share regular duties with Police Chief Cleo Mellott.

Wilson, who resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson, was sworn in Friday by Mayor Karl Lindner to handle police duties during the day.

Chief Mellott has taken a reduction in pay in order to start work at a tile works near Port Homer. He will patrol at night, instead of being on duty 24 hours daily with assistance from special officers. Wilson, a brother-in-law of Chief Mellott, is employed at the McLain Fire Brick Division of the H. K. Porter Co.

Council last month studied a proposed plan by which special legislation would be drawn to provide for a second regular officer. But Council subsequently decided against establishing a permanent two-man force in favor of a more flexible plan by which a special officer would be assigned regular duties.

Postoffice Asks Public Help To Stamp Out Sales Of 'Smut'

Residents of East Liverpool and other communities throughout the nation can destroy the $500 million-a-year mail order business in obscenity—if they want to—Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today.

The postmaster pointed out the judgment of what is obscene rests finally with the conscience of citizens.

"We can clean up East Liverpool if enough become aware of the seriousness of the problem and use their influence to drive out the peddlers," he said.

Residents who receive unordered and unwanted mail soliciting the sale of filthy, lewd and lascivious films, slides, pictures and other obscene material should complain to the postal department, Brown said.

The protest can be made either by writing him and enclosing the objectionable material and the envelope that was used, along with a signed protest, or stopping personally at the office.

The material will be turned over to postal officials for an investigation. If their findings justify, an order banning the material from the mails will be issued. If the sender of obscene literature protests the ruling, the case can be taken to a U. S. District Court for a decision.

Where material is clearly pornographic, criminal action can be taken by local authorities with the cooperation of the department. Convictions provide for both fines and jail terms.

Although the department has intensified its campaign to clean up the mails, it has been opposed by those who reap huge profits from unrestricted mailings, and from some misguided individuals who unwittingly aid dealers in obscenity by confusing liberty with license, Brown said.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield said he feels the mail order traffic in obscenity is "one of the most serious moral and social problems" in the country.

"In spite of frustrations, legal complications and even court decisions, I have a responsibility to attempt to prevent the use of the mails for indecent material, and to seek indictments and prosecutions for such offenses." he said. "It seems to me this is the only method by which the dimensions of the problem can be established before the courts, Congress and the public."

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann: I'm 24, self-supporting and living at home. For the last few months I've been exchanging magazines and letters with a gentleman in India. He is married and has written in detail about his wife and family.

I started this correspondence because I wanted to do my bit to make friends for America and offset some of the propaganda the Russians have been pouring into that country.

My mother objects strongly. She says an unmarried girl never corresponds with a married man for any reason whatever. I've explained this is no romance, that the letters are purely cultural in content and have even offered to let her read them. She stands firm. Your opinion, please.—W.W.

-:-

A girl 24 should be able to decide with whom she wishes to correspond without help from Mother. The exchange of letters and literature sounds like a fine idea. India declared its Independence in 1950. When are you going to do the same?

Sick Romance

Dear Ann: Our son is 17 and a junior in high school. He's mature mentally and physically, a fine student and active in sports.

He's going steady with a 22-year-old girl. She's teaching school and they are madly in love. They're together seven nights a week. She's immature emotionally and pouts if he doesn't pay attention to her every minute.

She refuses to go anywhere without him, even to church. We've told him he should date others but he says he loves her so why bother? She resents us bitterly and accuses us of trying to "break them up."

This is a real problem in our home. What can we do?—WORRIED DAD.

Your first mistake was permitting your son to get tied up with ANY girl seven nights a week, much less a 22-year - old one. This is a sick relationship and the school teacher sounds like an emotional basket case. Most 22-year-old girls wouldn't be caught dead with a high school junior.

Apparently the boy does pretty much as he pleases so you need outside help. I suggest a visit with the high school dean of men, the coach, a clergyman, doctor or some adult for whom he has respect. This should be private (between the boy and the party he selects). Allow him to make the choice so he won't think you fixed the interview.

He'll get the same advice you've been giving him but from an outsider it may make a dent.

Beauty Treatment

Dear Ann: My sister-in-law and I run a small but prosperous beauty salon. Several months ago a very nice patron told us she was an accountant and that she'd do our bookkeeping and income tax returns in exchange for her beauty work. We agreed.

In the last month she has had her hair shampooed and set nine times, plus a permanent, six manicures and four pedicures. She has had the color of her hair changed three times in the last four months. We feel she's taking advantage of us but we don't want an enemy. What do you suggest?—STUCK SISTERS.

-:-

Dear Stuck: Deals like this rarely work out to the satisfaction of both parties. (Usually they BOTH think they've been stuck.)

Engage a male accountant and pay him in money, not shampoos. Tell the patron you've decided to call the "deal" off.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann: I'm 24, self-supporting and living at home. For the last few months I've been exchanging magazines and letters with a gentleman in India. He is married and has written in detail about his wife and family.

I started this correspondence because I wanted to do my bit to make friends for America and offset some of the propaganda the Russians have been pouring into that country.

My mother objects strongly. She says an unmarried girl never corresponds with a married man for any reason whatever. I've explained this is no romance, that the letters are purely cultural in content and have even offered to let her read them. She stands firm. Your opinion, please.—W.W.

-:-

A girl 24 should be able to decide with whom she wishes to correspond without help from Mother. The exchange of letters and literature sounds like a fine idea. India declared its Independence in 1950. When are you going to do the same?

Sick Romance

Dear Ann: Our son is 17 and a junior in high school. He's mature mentally and physically, a fine student and active in sports.

He's going steady with a 22-year-old girl. She's teaching school and they are madly in love. They're together seven nights a week. She's immature emotionally and pouts if he doesn't pay attention to her every minute.

She refuses to go anywhere without him, even to church. We've told him he should date others but he says he loves her so why bother? She resents us bitterly and accuses us of trying to "break them up."

This is a real problem in our home. What can we do?—WORRIED DAD.

Your first mistake was permitting your son to get tied up with ANY girl seven nights a week, much less a 22-year - old one. This is a sick relationship and the school teacher sounds like an emotional basket case. Most 22-year-old girls wouldn't be caught dead with a high school junior.

Apparently the boy does pretty much as he pleases so you need outside help. I suggest a visit with the high school dean of men, the coach, a clergyman, doctor or some adult for whom he has respect. This should be private (between the boy and the party he selects). Allow him to make the choice so he won't think you fixed the interview.

He'll get the same advice you've been giving him but from an outsider it may make a dent.

Beauty Treatment

Dear Ann: My sister-in-law and I run a small but prosperous beauty salon. Several months ago a very nice patron told us she was an accountant and that she'd do our bookkeeping and income tax returns in exchange for her beauty work. We agreed.

In the last month she has had her hair shampooed and set nine times, plus a permanent, six manicures and four pedicures. She has had the color of her hair changed three times in the last four months. We feel she's taking advantage of us but we don't want an enemy. What do you suggest?—STUCK SISTERS.

-:-

Dear Stuck: Deals like this rarely work out to the satisfaction of both parties. (Usually they BOTH think they've been stuck.)

Engage a male accountant and pay him in money, not shampoos. Tell the patron you've decided to call the "deal" off.

---

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

The Credo Of Arthur Godfrey

A mixture of hope and sorrow blanketed the Arthur Godfrey offices on E. 52nd St. The hope had to do with the fact that corrective surgery was possible for his illness. The sorrow had to do with the normal uncertainties.

Marie Torre

It's unlikely Godfrey would have approved of the mournful faces. No man would who subscribes to the theory that "anyone who neglects to live in the full meaning of his life makes a mockery of it."

Many times Godfrey has made remarks to that effect, but he put it best once, in 1956, during an interview in the quiet confines of his wood-panelled office.

-:-

IT WAS SPOKEN during a reflective moment, after he was asked to give his credo. And it seems especially fitting at this time to reprint the statement:

"My credo?" he echoed. "I'd say it's 'live life to the fullest.' That's something most of us don't do until we're on the brink of death. I have. I feel as if I'm living on borrowed time, and sometimes that makes me do silly things.

"I can look at a bouquet of flowers, for instance, and get all choked up. I become grateful to God for the privilege of being alive to enjoy it. If you look at a bird, a tree, the miracle of birth, how can you deny the existence of God? Everywhere you turn you see this everlasting life.

"Every year in winter, I look out at the bare woodlands, and then in spring I see it all bloom into the most beautiful mass of greenery ever conceived. Everlasting life? You're darn tootin' there is! What is will nurture what is to be."

Good luck, Arthur!

THE LOSS of one of his three sponsors (Revlon) has led to speculation about the end being near for Garry Moore's show. Not so.

While Moore has a firm deal with CBS to continue his variety show through next season, discussions are under way with five sponsors interested in filling the void left by Revlon.

"The problem now," explained Moore, "is to decide which sponsor has the product that's most compatible with the ones we have. I'd say life couldn't be rosier."

-:-

NORMALLY, a star-filled event like the TV Emmy telecast finds the opposition so resigned to minimal ratings that often they resort to reruns.

On Wednesday, however, "The United States Steel Hour" will put its best foot forward when it competes with the Emmy for the attention of viewers.

The "Steel" management has scheduled for that night what it regards as a superior story, "The Wayward Widow," all about a female bootlegger.

The leading lady selected to turn eyes away from the Emmys is Betsy Palmer, who has, we'd say, a running chance. Her vis-a-vis is also easy to look at: Richard Greene.

Miss Palmer, incidentally, will be on "I've Got a Secret" at 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, directly preceding the "Steel Hour," so she will be CBS for a total period of 90 minutes. A veritable Betsy Palmer spectacular!

-:-

LATEST NAME actor to seek Western sweepstakes is Henry Fonda, who recently completed a pilot film of "The Deputy."...

CBS is said to be flooded with mail requests for a repeat of the excellent "Judgment at Nuremberg" play presented recently on "Playhouse 90." ...

Ginger Rogers plays Milton Berle's attractive foil Wednesday.

Council Told Of Project Of Power Firm

The Ohio Power Co. moved into high gear Monday with a $500,000 project to improve service in East Liverpool by building a new 69,000-volt power loop entirely around the city — requiring new transmission lines and revamping of four substations.

Although the utility announced plans for the new distribution system in January, William A. Black, area manager of Ohio Power, explained the work in detail to Council Monday night. He said he thought the data would help them answer questions from constituents puzzled about construction work on both transmission lines and substations.

The primary purpose of the project is to meet steadily-mounting power demands, particularly in fast-growing residential areas in the city and the suburbs of Calcutta and Glenmoor, Black explained. Increasing the voltage carried in the lines means that Ohio Power will be able to guarantee adequate service for the growth anticipated for at least 20 years, he said.

Sub-stations on E. 2nd St., in East End near the Patterson Foundry & Machine Co., at the state line on Harvey Ave. and in Calcutta will be revamped to handle the higher voltage, Black explained.

Ohio Power's loop makes an oval around the entire East Liverpool area. The electricity feeds in here from the Sub-station at 3rd St. in Wellsville. It goes east along the River Rd. and the riverfront area to the sub-station near the state line, then turns north and west to the sub-station at Calcutta. From Calcutta, it goes to Glenmoor and then back to Wellsville to complete the loop.

Entirely new transmission lines will be installed along the present right-of-way. In the only deviation from the present route, the line on the River Rd. will be re-located for a short distance east of the Chester Bridge to avoid flood threats, Black explained. Now on the river side of the roadway, the line will be shifted to the opposite side.

Crews arrived in East Liverpool over the weekend to begin work on the sub-stations. Crews are expected about mid-month to start stringing the new transmission lines.

In addition to the higher voltage in the power loop, the Calcutta and Glenmoor area distribution facilities are being converted from 4,000 volts to 12,000 volts, Black explained. The change-over affects part of the North Side and Pleasant Heights areas in East Liverpool north to Calcutta.

In connection with the switch to 12,000-volt service, new transformers are being installed on utility poles. At present, there are two transformers per pole—the 4,000-volt type and the 12,000-volt type. When the changeover is made, the 4,000-volt transformer will be taken out of service—and later removed from the poles—and the 12,000-volt transformers will be hooked into the lines, Black explained.

The power line between Wellsville and East Liverpool was converted to the higher voltage several years ago.

Cruiser's Mercy Run Points Up Autoist Indifference To Siren

An East End mother, whose son was rushed to City Hospital by private auto and police cruiser after suffering a badly lacerated arm a week ago, has praised a city patrolman for his work but expressed concern over motorists' indifference to an emergency vehicle.

In a telephone conversation with Safety-Service Director Joseph Ross, Mrs. Woodrow R. Adkins, 855 Pennsylvania Ave., commended Patrolman Sam Hayes in helping get her and her son, Danny, 4½, to the hospital.

"He was really wonderful," Mrs. Adkins told the director.

But Mrs. Adkins was amazed because motorists failed to clear the way for the cruiser despite the siren's wailing and a flashing red warning. "They just wouldn't move," she said.

Her concern prompted the director to caution motorists that city and state law provides a motorist must pull to the side of the street as closely as possible and stop.

The city law reads: "Upon the approach of an emergency vehicle, equipped with at least one flashing red light visible under normal atmospheric conditions from a distance of 500 feet to the front and when the driver is giving audible signal by siren, exhaust whistle or bell, the driver of every other vehicle shall yield the right-of-way and shall immediately drive to a position parallel to and as close as possible to the edge or curb of the highway, clear of any intersection, and shall stop and remain until the emergency vehicle has passed, except when otherwise directed by a police officer." The ordinance also provides drivers of emergency vehicles must exercise "due regard for the safety of all persons and property."

The city code defines an emergency vehicle as "fire department, police and state highway patrol vehicles and emergency vehicles of municipal departments or public utility corporations, when identified as such as required by law, and motor vehicles commandeered by a police officer, and ambulances."

The youngster cut his arm while running to greet his father late last Tuesday afternoon. Bleeding profusely from the gash, he was loaded in the family car for the hurried trip to the hospital.

Despite constant sounding of his horn, Adkins was unable to make much headway against traffic on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd.", the wife said.

Spotting Patrolman Hayes in a cruiser at the Bus Terminal, Adkins pulled alongside, explained the problem and Mrs. Adkins and the youngster got in the cruiser for a quicker trip.

But despite the siren and flashing signal, the cruiser had to stop at every traffic light until the vehicle reached Monroe St. where it had a clear path, she said.

The director said the city is glad to hear of the commendation for its officers but said it also pointed up the difficulty of emergency vehicles getting through traffic.

"The city has been encouraging safe driving on the part of all emergency vehicle drivers," Ross said.

"At times, the drivers are criticized by other motorists but I feel part of the reason is the fact the emergency vehicles do not always get the proper right-of-way."

Exam Slated For City Post

The Municipal Civil Service Commission said today it will conduct a competitive examination May 20 to fill the position of assistant clerk-stenographer in the sewage treatment department, which now is filled on a temporary basis.

The examination will be held at 7:30 p. m. at the Ohio Valley Business College.

The job, which pays $245 monthly and now is held on a temporary basis by Joyce Rose, originally was approved by City Council under emergency legislation.

Applicants must be between 21 and 45 and a legal resident of East Liverpool. The job involves general office work, including typing.

The commission set the deadline for applications at 4:30 p. m. May 18. A $1 fee must accompany the notarized application.

Application blanks can be obtained from Mayor Fred P. Lawrence's office or any member of the commission. The commission members are Donal I. Burcham, chairman, Alvin T. Babb and Ben H. Berman. Colin L. Neal is secretary.

Fighting Fires With Chemicals Is Shown

A demonstration of fighting a liquid fire with dry chemicals was presented by Norman Neal when the Calcutta volunteer firemen met Monday night at the fire station. Eighteen attended.

Neal, president, conducted business. It was announced that firemen will sponsor a concession stand in a carnival of the Lawrenceville volunteer fire department June 2-6.

Firemen are continuing work on the new fire station, including installation of downspouting and outdoor landscaping.

They will sponsor a round and square dance Saturday night at the station from 9:30 to 12:30, Neal said. The next meeting will be Monday night at 8:30.

Physicians And Health Group Sponsors Pupils Poster Contest

LISBON—The Columbiana County Medical Society and the Lake Hope Conference county health team are sponsoring a poster contest in schools in the county.

The contest is being held to stimulate interest in health in the county and to create greater interest in the health tent to be featured at the County Fair by the medical society, county health department and other health agencies.

The subject of the posters will be "Good Health—At Home, At School Or At Play."

Each school will be asked to submit three posters from high school and three from junior high school. Posters must be 12-x-18 inches on heavy paper or cardboard and must be in by May 28.

They will be judged by a panel of physicians on originality, attractiveness, neatness and practicability.

Cash awards of saving certificates will be given to first-place winners of each division. Ribbons will be awarded for first, second, third, and fourth place winners in the two divisions.

Statewide recognition will be given to the winning posters as they will be submitted to the Ohio State Medical Association's committee on school health.

Out Of The Air

By MARIE TORRE

The Credo Of Arthur Godfrey

A mixture of hope and sorrow blanketed the Arthur Godfrey offices on E. 52nd St. The hope had to do with the fact that corrective surgery was possible for his illness. The sorrow had to do with the normal uncertainties.

Marie Torre

It's unlikely Godfrey would have approved of the mournful faces. No man would who subscribes to the theory that "anyone who neglects to live in the full meaning of his life makes a mockery of it."

Many times Godfrey has made remarks to that effect, but he put it best once, in 1956, during an interview in the quiet confines of his wood-panelled office.

-:-

IT WAS SPOKEN during a reflective moment, after he was asked to give his credo. And it seems especially fitting at this time to reprint the statement:

"My credo?" he echoed. "I'd say it's 'live life to the fullest.' That's something most of us don't do until we're on the brink of death. I have. I feel as if I'm living on borrowed time, and sometimes that makes me do silly things.

"I can look at a bouquet of flowers, for instance, and get all choked up. I become grateful to God for the privilege of being alive to enjoy it. If you look at a bird, a tree, the miracle of birth, how can you deny the existence of God? Everywhere you turn you see this everlasting life.

"Every year in winter, I look out at the bare woodlands, and then in spring I see it all bloom into the most beautiful mass of greenery ever conceived. Everlasting life? You're darn tootin' there is! What is will nurture what is to be."

Good luck, Arthur!

-:-

THE LOSS of one of his three sponsors (Revlon) has led to speculation about the end being near for Garry Moore's show. Not so.

While Moore has a firm deal with CBS to continue his variety show through next season, discussions are under way with five sponsors interested in filling the void left by Revlon.

"The problem now," explained Moore, "is to decide which sponsor has the product that's most compatible with the ones we have. I'd say life couldn't be rosier."

-:-

NORMALLY, a star-filled event like the TV Emmy telecast finds the opposition so resigned to minimal ratings that often they resort to reruns.

On Wednesday, however, "The United States Steel Hour" will put its best foot forward when it competes with the Emmy for the attention of viewers.

The "Steel" management has scheduled for that night what it regards as a superior story, "The Wayward Widow," all about a female bootlegger.

The leading lady selected to turn eyes away from the Emmys is Betsy Palmer, who has, we'd say, a running chance. Her vis-a-vis is also easy to look at: Richard Greene.

Miss Palmer, incidentally, will be on "I've Got a Secret" at 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, directly preceding the "Steel Hour," so she will be CBS for a total period of 90 minutes. A veritable Betsy Palmer spectacular!

-:-

LATEST NAME actor to seek Western sweepstakes is Henry Fonda, who recently completed a pilot film of "The Deputy." . . .

CBS is said to be flooded with mail requests for a repeat of the excellent "Judgment at Nuremberg" play presented recently on "Playhouse 90." . . .

Ginger Rogers plays Milton Berle's attractive foil Wednesday.

Council Told Of Project Of Power Firm

The Ohio Power Co. moved into high gear Monday with a $500,000 project to improve service in East Liverpool by building a new 69,000-volt power loop entirely around the city — requiring new transmission lines and revamping of four substations.

Although the utility announced plans for the new distribution system in January, William A. Black, area manager of Ohio Power, explained the work in detail to Council Monday night. He said he thought the data would help them answer questions from constituents puzzled about construction work on both transmission lines and substations.

The primary purpose of the project is to meet steadily-mounting power demands, particularly in fast-growing residential areas in the city and the suburbs of Calcutta and Glenmoor, Black explained. Increasing the voltage carried in the lines means that Ohio Power will be able to guarantee adequate service for the growth anticipated for at least 20 years, he said.

Sub-stations on E. 2nd St., in East End near the Patterson Foundry & Machine Co., at the state line on Harvey Ave. and in Calcutta will be revamped to handle the higher voltage, Black explained.

Ohio Power's loop makes an oval around the entire East Liverpool area. The electricity feeds in here from the Sub-station at 3rd St. in Wellsville. It goes east along the River Rd. and the riverfront area to the sub-station near the state line, then turns north and west to the sub-station at Calcutta. From Calcutta, it goes to Glenmoor and then back to Wellsville to complete the loop.

Entirely new transmission lines will be installed along the present right-of-way. In the only deviation from the present route, the line on the River Rd. will be re-located for a short distance east of the Chester Bridge to avoid flood threats, Black explained. Now on the river side of the roadway, the line will be shifted to the opposite side.

Crews arrived in East Liverpool over the weekend to begin work on the sub-stations. Crews are expected about mid-month to start stringing the new transmission lines.

In addition to the higher voltage in the power loop, the Calcutta and Glenmoor area distribution facilities are being converted from 4,000 volts to 12,000 volts, Black explained. The change-over affects part of the North Side and Pleasant Heights areas in East Liverpool north to Calcutta.

In connection with the switch to 12,000-volt service, new transformers are being installed on utility poles. At present, there are two transformers per pole—the 4,000-volt type and the 12,000-volt type. When the changeover is made, the 4,000-volt transformer will be taken out of service—and later removed from the poles—and the 12,000-volt transformers will be hooked into the lines, Black explained.

The power line between Wellsville and East Liverpool was converted to the higher voltage several years ago.

Cruiser's Mercy Run Points Up Autoist Indifference To Siren

An East End mother, whose son was rushed to City Hospital by private auto and police cruiser after suffering a badly lacerated arm a week ago, has praised a city patrolman for his work but expressed concern over motorists' indifference to an emergency vehicle.

In a telephone conversation with Safety-Service Director Joseph Ross, Mrs. Woodrow R. Adkins, 855 Pennsylvania Ave., commended Patrolman Sam Hayes in helping get her and her son, Danny, 4½, to the hospital.

"He was really wonderful," Mrs. Adkins told the director.

But Mrs. Adkins was amazed because motorists failed to clear the way for the cruiser despite the siren's wailing and a flashing red warning. "They just wouldn't move," she said.

Her concern prompted the director to caution motorists that city and state law provides a motorist must pull to the side of the street as closely as possible and stop.

The city law reads: "Upon the approach of an emergency vehicle, equipped with at least one flashing red light visible under normal atmospheric conditions from a distance of 500 feet to the front and when the driver is giving audible signal by siren, exhaust whistle or bell, the driver of every other vehicle shall yield the right-of-way and shall immediately drive to a position parallel to and as close as possible to the edge or curb of the highway, clear of any intersection, and shall stop and remain until the emergency vehicle has passed, except when otherwise directed by a police officer." The ordinance also provides drivers of emergency vehicles must exercise "due regard for the safety of all persons and property."

The city code defines an emergency vehicle as "fire department, police and state highway patrol vehicles and emergency vehicles of municipal departments or public utility corporations, when identified as such as required by law, and motor vehicles commandeered by a police officer, and ambulances."

The youngster cut his arm while running to greet his father late last Tuesday afternoon. Bleeding profusely from the gash, he was loaded in the family car for the hurried trip to the hospital.

Despite constant sounding of his horn, Adkins was unable to make much headway against traffic on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd.", the wife said.

Spotting Patrolman Hayes in a cruiser at the Bus Terminal, Adkins pulled alongside, explained the problem and Mrs. Adkins and the youngster got in the cruiser for a quicker trip.

But despite the siren and flashing signal, the cruiser had to stop at every traffic light until the vehicle reached Monroe St. where it had a clear path, she said.

The director said the city is glad to hear of the commendation for its officers but said it also pointed up the difficulty of emergency vehicles getting through traffic.

"The city has been encouraging safe driving on the part of all emergency vehicle drivers," Ross said.

"At times, the drivers are criticized by other motorists but I feel part of the reason is the fact the emergency vehicles do not always get the proper right-of-way."

Firemen are continuing work on the new fire station, including installation of downspouting and outdoor landscaping.

Physicians And Health Group Sponsors Pupils Poster Contest

LISBON—The Columbiana County Medical Society and the Lake Hope Conference county health team are sponsoring a poster contest in schools in the county.

The contest is being held to stimulate interest in health in the county and to create greater interest in the health tent to be featured at the County Fair by the medical society, county health department and other health agencies.

The subject of the posters will be "Good Health—At Home, At School Or At Play."

Each school will be asked to submit three posters from high school and three from junior high school. Posters must be 12-x-18 inches on heavy paper or cardboard and must be in by May 28.

They will be judged by a panel of physicians on originality, attractiveness, neatness and practicability.

Cash awards of saving certificates will be given to first-place winners of each division. Ribbons will be awarded for first, second, third, and fourth place winners in the two divisions.

Statewide recognition will be given to the winning posters as they will be submitted to the Ohio State Medical Association's committee on school health.

3-Team Race Seen In 56th County Track Meet Friday

Palestine, Salem, Potters Favored

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Some 150 athletes from 10 schools will converge on Salem Friday for the annual Columbiana County track carnival.

The meet has the distinction of being the oldest in the state and will be run for the 56th time.

It looks like a tossup among three teams in the Class "AA" bracket—Salem, East Palestine and East Liverpool.

Salem and Palestine have been battling it out for the last two years, with Salem finishing on top both times. Palestine won the championship in 1956.

LAST YEAR'S meet went to Salem by one point, 53-52, while the Potters ran third with 29 points.

The other two teams in the "AA" competition are Wellsville and Beaver Local. The Class "A" contestants include United, Fairfield-Waterford, Leetonia, Columbiana and Salineville.

Salem has won the meet more times than any other school. The Quakers show 22 victories. East Palestine, which has been entered in all but one meet since the classic began, never has finished worse than third.

East Liverpool claims two titles, one in 1916 and the other in 1949. The Potters settled for a tie with East Palestine in 1952.

—:—

THIS YEAR'S field of 10 teams matches the other previous high for the meet, 10 having been entered in 1917.

Coach Bob Hedmond will take an East Liverpool squad to Salem which is strong in the running events but weak in the field.

The Potters will have to pile up enough points in the track events in order to give Salem and Palestine a run for their money.

East Liverpool is counting heavily on Bob Mackall in the sprints. He is undefeated in dual meet competition at 100 yards and 220 yards and broad jumps over 20 feet.

A duel is expected in the mile run where Warren Lincoln and Salem's Jim Solmen are entered. Solmen defeated Lincoln last year at Palestine with a time of 4.47.9.

The Salem miler has posted a 4:40.8 this season, while Lincoln's best time has been 4:42.

East Liverpool's Nick Musuraca, who has been running second to Mackall, is expected to be close in the dashes. Hedmond plans to enter Bill O'Neil in the 440-yard. O'Neil placed second in the quarter-mile in 1958.

Sophomore Bob Christen is expected to place in the hurdle events. He also is undefeated this spring.

EAST LIVERPOOL has two members back this year from the mile relay team which set a county record last year. Bill O'Neil and Dave Betteridge will be in the mile relay Friday. They teamed with Jim Paynter and Art Peters last year for a 3:37.3 clocking for the new mark.

Hedmond plans to use O'Neil, Betteridge, Christen and Joe Thompson in the mile relay.

Dan Baldwin, the Wellsville basketball and track star, is expected to repeat in the half-mile and may go after the county record.

Baldwin will receive some competition from United's Jim Pike and East Liverpool's Lincoln. The Wellsville half-miler has been clocked in 2:03 earlier this spring. The county record is 2:03.5.

Bob Kiggans will be shooting for a first in the high jump. The Wellsville sophomore already has cleared 5 feet, 10 inches, this season.

John DiFlippio has been putting the shot around 43 feet for Coach Ken Woods' team and placing high in the Ohio Valley Conference meets.

Palestine has enough strength in the dashes and field events to break the meet wide open.

—:—

BEAU BELL, leading scorer in district football two season's ago, is the top performer in the field events. He puts the shot about 46 feet, while Phil Reidy has been getting off some good tosses with the discus of 138 feet.

George Morris is rated a top choice to take the 100-yard dash. He has a 10.3 clocking on the books this year.

Roy Reesh will be in the 120-yard low hurdles, with his best time this year 16.8.

In the pole vault, Don Hill and Dick Libert have been going 10 feet, 6 inches and 10 feet, 10 inches, while Dale Lane has been turning in marks of 5 feet, 9 inches and 5 feet, 11 inches in the high jump.

Libert and Reesh double up in the broad jump where they go close to 19 feet, 6 inches.

Palestine is reported to be weak in the distance events, but co-captain Art Herriott specializes in the 440, with his best time to date 53.7.

Salem has back three thinclads who won events in last year's meet.

Solmen will be in the mile, while Charlie Horn is expected to repeat in the pole vault after turning in a mark of 11 feet, 4 inches a year ago.

Horn also will be entered in the high jump and the 180-yard low hurdles where, he has a 22.1 clocking this spring.

Ben Jones, the place-kicking specialist, will be back seeking his second straight win in the 440. His best time this season has been 54.7.

Lou Slaby, the football and basketball star, has been putting the shot at 45 feet and better.

Fred Cope of Salem director of the meet, announced the shot put and discus events will get under way in the afternoon about 2, with trials in running events slated for 2:30 and the high hurdles about 2:30 p. m.

Finals in all running events, broad jump, pole vault and high jump will start at 7 p. m.

A's Blow Chance To Take Over 2nd

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Maybe the question isn't "what's with the New York Yankees?" but "what's with the American League?"

Could be that Yankee Manager Casey Stengel had the answer long ago. At a loss to explain the slump of his world champions, who are seventh, 6½ games out of first place after losing 9 of their last 10, Casey diagnosed the AL before the symptoms appeared.

Even last winter Stengel warned his champs that the league had become stronger. The standings show the proof of his prodding.

Who's first? The Cleveland Indians, at 13-5. They had to play 27 games last season before they won 13. They finished fourth, nailing that last first division berth on the final day of the season.

Baltimore's Orioles and the Chicago White Sox are tied for second, each at 11-8. Fourth? Kansas City. And who's fifth? The long lost Washington Senators, who have the best record (5-2) among the Easter clubs on their present trek through the West.

That leaves Boston (8-9) sixth, the Yankees (7-12) seventh and Detroit (4-15) last.

Kansas City blew a chance to take sole posession of second place Monday, losing 8-4 to Boston in the only game scheduled in the AL.

Kansas City blew a first-inning 3-0 lead against the Red Sox. Dick Gernert, 4-for-5, doubled home the tying run and scored Boston's lead run on Sammy White's single in a two-run sixth. Then Gernert hit a two-run double in the eighth, and Jackie Jensen's fifth homer counted two in the ninth.

Bill Monbouquette (1-0) won it with 6 2-3 innings of three-hit relief after replacing starter Frank Baumann and getting out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam in the second.

The 1959 winner will be known Wednesday night during the dance from 9 to 12, with Russ Romero's orchestra furnishing the music.

The new winner will join a formidable group of ex-Potter stars.

Walks And Errors Help Chester To Seventh Win

The Chester Panthers collected only three hits but made the most of 12 walks and three errors to hand Beaver Local a 7-4 setback Monday at the Beaver Local diamond.

Beaver Local's Zeigler got in trouble in the first inning when struck by wildness and Coach Dom Amedeo's Panthers pushed across four big runs.

The home team came back in the second inning to make the game interesting by scoring three runs. Chester came up in the fifth and scored what proved the winning runs when John Steele slapped a two-run single.

The Beaver tallied one more in the fifth and then Chester added a single run in the sixth.

Pep Daugherty, who relieved Gary Pugh, received credit for the victory. Between Daugherty and Pugh Beaver Local received only one hit. Daugherty struck out 10 batters. George Sachs, who relieved Zeigler, fanned 11.

Beagle walloped a triple for Beaver Local's only safety.

The victory was Chester's seventh in nine starts.

White Feather Bowmen Set Meeting Tonight

The White Feather Bowmen Club of Midland will meet tonight at 8 at the clubhouse.

Second Place Orioles Face Tribe Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles, who have been flying almost as high as the Cleveland Indians this spring, are in town tonight for their first encounter of the season with the Tribe.

The Orioles have won five of their last eight games, including three from the New York Yankees, and are tied with Chicago for second place in the American League, 2½ games behind Cleveland.

Cleveland General Manager Frank Lane says the Yankees still are the team to beat, even though they are in seventh place.

"Of course, the Yankees are our toughest competition," he said in an interview Monday. "They're the champs and you gotta beat them if you want to win it. They're a solid ball club and once they start hitting again, they'll be tough."

But Lane thinks the Indians, too, should improve.

"Only in the last few days has Rocky Colavito started hitting the way he should, and the same for Billy Martin," Lane remarked. When those other guys (Russ Nixon, Minnie Minoso and Jim Piersall) start going, we'll be even better."

Manager Joe Gordon is benching Nixon in favor of Dick Brown tonight. Woodie Held, recovered from a hand injury, will return to third base.

The Orioles will send Jack Harshman, trying for his first victory of the season after three losses, against the Indians. For Cleveland it will be Don Ferrarese (2-1).

San Francisco Regains NL Lead

Giants Rally In 9th, Nip Reds, 6-5; Clemente's Single Trips Cubs, 2-1

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Brush back pitches and dusters now are spicing the hot National League pennant scramble that has seen the lead change hands three times in three days.

San Francisco and Cincinnati grappled in one of the double-bladed duels Monday night as the Giants put across four ninth-inning runs, then stood off a rally by the Reds for a 6-5 victory. That hoisted the Giants back into the lead, by a mere .009 percentage points over Los Angeles.

Los Angeles closed in by dropping Milwaukee from first to third with a 5-3 victory over the Braves and southpaw Warren Spahn, the ace the Dodgers always trump.

Pittsburgh reached .500 for the first time and took fifth place from Chicago by beating the Cubs 2-1 in the only other NL game scheduled.

The dusting started early in Cincinnati. The Giants' Willie Mays hit the dirt getting away from Bob Purkey's low, inside pitch in the first inning. Then Purkey was plunked on the leg in the eighth inning by winning reliever Gordon Jones. Manager Bill Rigney of the Giants was banished for arguing the call that waved Purkey to first base.

Just Sunday, St. Louis and Pittsburgh jawed at each other over pitching tactics. Earlier, the Reds' Frank Robinson found Pittsburgh's Bob Friend and George Witt unusually wild.

Purkey, the right-hander who ran up a 6-0 string against the Giants from 1955 to last August, had a 3-2 lead going into the ninth. Then a three-run double by Jim Davenport and Willie Kirkland's RBI single made it 6-3. Red Worthington, replacing Jones, gave up two runs in the Red ninth, one on Frank Robinson's homer, before Jack Sanford hurried in to get the final out.

Gil Hodges, part of the old guard right-handed power that made Spahn a seldom-starter against the Dodgers, was 4-for-4 at Milwaukee and all were for extra bases—two doubles and a pair of solo home runs.

Don Demeter, one of the Dodgers' new generation of right-handed belters, broke a 2-2 tie and wrapped it up with two-run homer in the seventh. Southpaw Johnny Podres gained a 3-2 season record with Art Fowler's relief in the ninth.

The Pirates were shut out on three hits by rookie Bob Anderson before they scored their two in the eighth. Dick Groat's double and singles by pinch-hitter Rocky Nelson and Bob Clemente handed Anderson his first defeat in three decisions. Ron Kline (2-1) won it, giving up but four hits and blanking the Cubs until Jim Marshall unloaded his first home run in the seventh.

Midland Nine Scores 6-5 Win Over Monaca

A sacrifice fly which scored Roger Parker in the sixth inning proved the winning margin in Midland's 6-5 victory over Monaca Monday at Crucible Field.

Krizan hit the long fly ball and Parker scored after he walked and swiped second and third.

The Leopards broke on top with one run in the first inning and two in the second, but Monaca came right back with three runs in the top half of the third to knot the score at 3-3.

Midland broke the tie with two more runs in the bottom of the third then Monaca posted one in the fourth.

After Midland scored the winning marker in the sixth, the Leopards were forced to stave off a seventh inning rally by the Indians who scored once in the last frame.

A key play by Leon Adkins stopped what looked like a big fifth ining for Monaca. With Monaca runners on second and third, Zagar lined to Adkins on the mound. The Midland hurler stabbed the ball, wheeled and tossed to Eckles at third base for a double play to end the inning.

Midland collected six hits with Suchanec getting two, including a double. Tepovich smacked a triple for the Leopards.

Monaca got seven hits off three Midland pitchers. Dean Frederick wound up as the winning pitcher.

Leetonia took 10 firsts in the meet.

3-Team Race Seen In 56th County Track Meet Friday

Palestine, Salem, Potters Favored

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Some 150 athletes from 10 schools will converge on Salem Friday for the annual Columbiana County track carnival.

The meet has the distinction of being the oldest in the state and will be run for the 56th time.

It looks like a tossup among three teams in the Class "AA" bracket—Salem, East Palestine and East Liverpool.

Salem and Palestine have been battling it out for the last two years, with Salem finishing on top both times. Palestine won the championship in 1956.

LAST YEAR'S meet went to Salem by one point, 53-52, while the Potters ran third with 29 points.

The other two teams in the "AA" competition are Wellsville and Beaver Local. The Class "A" contestants include United, Fairfield-Waterford, Leetonia, Columbiana and Salineville.

Salem has won the meet more times than any other school. The Quakers show 22 victories. East Palestine, which has been entered in all but one meet since the classic began, never has finished worse than third.

East Liverpool claims two titles, one in 1916 and the other in 1949. The Potters settled for a tie with East Palestine in 1952.

—:—

THIS YEAR'S field of 10 teams matches the other previous high for the meet, 10 having been entered in 1917.

Coach Bob Hedmond will take an East Liverpool squad to Salem which is strong in the running events but weak in the field.

The Potters will have to pile up enough points in the track events in order to give Salem and Palestine a run for their money.

East Liverpool is counting heavily on Bob Mackall in the sprints. He is undefeated in dual meet competition at 100 yards and 220 yards and broad jumps over 20 feet.

A duel is expected in the mile run where Warren Lincoln and Salem's Jim Solmen are entered. Solmen defeated Lincoln last year at Palestine with a time of 4.47.9.

The Salem miler has posted a 4:40.8 this season, while Lincoln's best time has been 4:42.

East Liverpool's Nick Musuraca, who has been running second to Mackall, is expected to be close in the dashes. Hedmond plans to enter Bill O'Neil in the 440-yard. O'Neil placed second in the quarter-mile in 1958.

Sophomore Bob Christen is expected to place in the hurdle events. He also is undefeated this spring.

EAST LIVERPOOL has two members back this year from the mile relay team which set a county record last year. Bill O'Neil and Dave Betteridge will be in the mile relay Friday. They teamed with Jim Paynter and Art Peters last year for a 3:37.3 clocking for the new mark.

Hedmond plans to use O'Neil, Betteridge, Christen and Joe Thompson in the mile relay.

Dan Baldwin, the Wellsville basketball and track star, is expected to repeat in the half-mile and may go after the county record.

Baldwin will receive some competition from United's Jim Pike and East Liverpool's Lincoln. The Wellsville half-miler has been clocked in 2:03 earlier this spring. The county record is 2:03.5.

Bob Kiggans will be shooting for a first in the high jump. The Wellsville sophomore already has cleared 5 feet, 10 inches, this season.

John DiFlippio has been putting the shot around 43 feet for Coach Ken Woods' team and placing high in the Ohio Valley Conference meets.

Palestine has enough strength in the dashes and field events to break the meet wide open.

—:—

BEAU BELL, leading scorer in district football two season's ago, is the top performer in the field events. He puts the shot about 46 feet, while Phil Reidy has been getting off some good tosses with the discus of 138 feet.

George Morris is rated a top choice to take the 100-yard dash. He has a 10.3 clocking on the books this year.

Roy Reesh will be in the 120-yard low hurdles, with his best time this year 16.8.

In the pole vault, Don Hill and Dick Libert have been going 10 feet, 6 inches and 10 feet, 10 inches, while Dale Lane has been turning in marks of 5 feet, 9 inches and 5 feet, 11 inches in the high jump.

Libert and Reesh double up in the broad jump where they go close to 19 feet, 6 inches.

Palestine is reported to be weak in the distance events, but co-captain Art Herriott specializes in the 440, with his best time to date 53.7.

Salem has back three thinclads who won events in last year's meet.

Solmen will be in the mile, while Charlie Horn is expected to repeat in the pole vault after turning in a mark of 11 feet, 4 inches a year ago.

Horn also will be entered in the high jump and the 180-yard low hurdles where, he has a 22.1 clocking this spring.

Ben Jones, the place-kicking specialist, will be back seeking his second straight win in the 440. His best time this season has been 54.7.

Lou Slaby, the football and basketball star, has been putting the shot at 45 feet and better.

Fred Cope of Salem director of the meet, announced the shot put and discus events will get under way in the afternoon about 2, with trials in running events slated for 2:30 and the high hurdles about 2:30 p. m.

Finals in all running events, broad jump, pole vault and high jump will start at 7 p. m.

A's Blow Chance To Take Over 2nd

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Maybe the question isn't "what's with the New York Yankees?" but "what's with the American League?"

Could be that Yankee Manager Casey Stengel had the answer long ago. At a loss to explain the slump of his world champions, who are seventh, 6½ games out of first place after losing 9 of their last 10, Casey diagnosed the AL before the symptoms appeared.

Even last winter Stengel warned his champs that the league had become stronger. The standings show the proof of his prodding.

Who's first? The Cleveland Indians, at 13-5. They had to play 27 games last season before they won 13. They finished fourth, nailing that last first division berth on the final day of the season.

Baltimore's Orioles and the Chicago White Sox are tied for second, each at 11-8. Fourth? Kansas City. And who's fifth? The long lost Washington Senators, who have the best record (5-2) among the Easter clubs on their present trek through the West.

That leaves Boston (8-9) sixth, the Yankees (7-12) seventh and Detroit (4-15) last.

Kansas City blew a chance to take sole posession of second place Monday, losing 8-4 to Boston in the only game scheduled in the AL.

Kansas City blew a first-inning 3-0 lead against the Red Sox. Dick Gernert, 4-for-5, doubled home the tying run and scored Boston's lead run on Sammy White's single in a two-run sixth. Then Gernert hit a two-run double in the eighth, and Jackie Jensen's fifth homer counted two in the ninth.

Bill Monbouquette (1-0) won it with 6 2-3 innings of three-hit relief after replacing starter Frank Baumann and getting out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam in the second.

Walks And Errors Help Chester To Seventh Win

The Chester Panthers collected only three hits but made the most of 12 walks and three errors to hand Beaver Local a 7-4 setback Monday at the Beaver Local diamond.

Beaver Local's Zeigler got in trouble in the first inning when struck by wildness and Coach Dom Amedeo's Panthers pushed across four big runs.

The home team came back in the second inning to make the game interesting by scoring three runs. Chester came up in the fifth and scored what proved the winning runs when John Steele slapped a two-run single.

The Beaver tallied one more in the fifth and then Chester added a single run in the sixth.

Pep Daugherty, who relieved Gary Pugh, received credit for the victory. Between Daugherty and Pugh Beaver Local received only one hit. Daugherty struck out 10 batters. George Sachs, who relieved Zeigler, fanned 11.

Beagle walloped a triple for Beaver Local's only safety.

The victory was Chester's seventh in nine starts.

White Feather Bowmen Set Meeting Tonight

The White Feather Bowmen Club of Midland will meet tonight at 8 at the clubhouse.

Second Place Orioles Face Tribe Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles, who have been flying almost as high as the Cleveland Indians this spring, are in town tonight for their first encounter of the season with the Tribe.

The Orioles have won five of their last eight games, including three from the New York Yankees, and are tied with Chicago for second place in the American League, 2½ games behind Cleveland.

Cleveland General Manager Frank Lane says the Yankees still are the team to beat, even though they are in seventh place.

"Of course, the Yankees are our toughest competition," he said in an interview Monday. "They're the champs and you gotta beat them if you want to win it. They're a solid ball club and once they start hitting again, they'll be tough."

But Lane thinks the Indians, too, should improve.

"Only in the last few days has Rocky Colavito started hitting the way he should, and the same for Billy Martin," Lane remarked. When those other guys (Russ Nixon, Minnie Minoso and Jim Piersall) start going, we'll be even better."

Manager Joe Gordon is benching Nixon in favor of Dick Brown tonight. Woodie Held, recovered from a hand injury, will return to third base.

The Orioles will send Jack Harshman, trying for his first victory of the season after three losses, against the Indians. For Cleveland it will be Don Ferrarese (2-1).

San Francisco Regains NL Lead

Giants Rally In 9th, Nip Reds, 6-5; Clemente's Single Trips Cubs, 2-1

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Brush back pitches and dusters now are spicing the hot National League pennant scramble that has seen the lead change hands three times in three days.

San Francisco and Cincinnati grappled in one of the double-bladed duels Monday night as the Giants put across four ninth-inning runs, then stood off a rally by the Reds for a 6-5 victory. That hoisted the Giants back into the lead, by a mere .009 percentage points over Los Angeles.

Los Angeles closed in by dropping Milwaukee from first to third with a 5-3 victory over the Braves and southpaw Warren Spahn, the ace the Dodgers always trump.

Pittsburgh reached .500 for the first time and took fifth place from Chicago by beating the Cubs 2-1 in the only other NL game scheduled.

The dusting started early in Cincinnati. The Giants' Willie Mays hit the dirt getting away from Bob Purkey's low, inside pitch in the first inning. Then Purkey was plunked on the leg in the eighth inning by winning reliever Gordon Jones. Manager Bill Rigney of the Giants was banished for arguing the call that waved Purkey to first base.

Just Sunday, St. Louis and Pittsburgh jawed at each other over pitching tactics. Earlier, the Reds' Frank Robinson found Pittsburgh's Bob Friend and George Witt unusually wild.

Purkey, the right-hander who ran up a 6-0 string against the Giants from 1955 to last August, had a 3-2 lead going into the ninth. Then a three-run double by Jim Davenport and Willie Kirkland's RBI single made it 6-3. Red Worthington, replacing Jones, gave up two runs in the Red ninth, one on Frank Robinson's homer, before Jack Sanford hurried in to get the final out.

Gil Hodges, part of the old guard right-handed power that made Spahn a seldom-starter against the Dodgers, was 4-for-4 at Milwaukee and all were for extra bases—two doubles and a pair of solo home runs.

Don Demeter, one of the Dodgers' new generation of right-handed belters, broke a 2-2 tie and wrapped it up with two-run homer in the seventh. Southpaw Johnny Podres gained a 3-2 season record with Art Fowler's relief in the ninth.

The Pirates were shut out on three hits by rookie Bob Anderson before they scored their two in the eighth. Dick Groat's double and singles by pinch-hitter Rocky Nelson and Bob Clemente handed Anderson his first defeat in three decisions. Ron Kline (2-1) won it, giving up but four hits and blanking the Cubs until Jim Marshall unloaded his first home run in the seventh.

Midland Nine Scores 6-5 Win Over Monaca

A sacrifice fly which scored Roger Parker in the sixth inning proved the winning margin in Midland's 6-5 victory over Monaca Monday at Crucible Field.

Krizan hit the long fly ball and Parker scored after he walked and swiped second and third.

The Leopards broke on top with one run in the first inning and two in the second, but Monaca came right back with three runs in the top half of the third to knot the score at 3-3.

Midland broke the tie with two more runs in the bottom of the third then Monaca posted one in the fourth.

After Midland scored the winning marker in the sixth, the Leopards were forced to stave off a seventh inning rally by the Indians who scored once in the last frame.

A key play by Leon Adkins stopped what looked like a big fifth ining for Monaca. With Monaca runners on second and third, Zagar lined to Adkins on the mound. The Midland hurler stabbed the ball, wheeled and tossed to Eckles at third base for a double play to end the inning.

Midland collected six hits with Suchanec getting two, including a double. Tepovich smacked a triple for the Leopards.

Monaca got seven hits off three Midland pitchers. Dean Frederick wound up as the winning pitcher.

Board Says Ruling's 'Cockeyed'

Commencement Flowers' Spending Termed 'Illegal'

You can receive a high school diploma without fuss, fanfare—or flowers. At least that's the apparent feeling in the state auditor's office.

In a recent audit of school books, Supt. Ralph W. Betts told the Board of Education Monday night a representative of the auditor's office reported the board spent school funds illegally in 1956 and 1957 for flowers to decorate the stage at commencement and baccalaureate exercises.

Betts said paying for the decorations had been a practice of years but now is paid for from the high school activities fund.

Board members termed the ruling "farfetched" and "cockeyed."

The auditor also commented without recommendation that the board had violated the state law when it entered into a contract with Merrill Hall and Charles Snyder for bus transportation because Hall is a teacher in the city district.

The representative said he learned in conferring with the superintendent that no other bus service was available and that the board would have had to buy 10 additional busses if the contract hadn't been awarded.

The third item reported by the auditor was a suggestion the board transfer $16,900 from the general fund to the bond retirement fund when funds are available. It is similar to a suggestion made in the last audit.

An attorney-general's ruling provided that interest collected from money invested in bonds be returned to the bond retirement fund. Although the ruling since has been changed to provide that interest received can be spent for the same purpose for which the bonds were issued, the transfer still should be made, the report said.

Betts said the auditor's report is "one of which the board and Miss (Kathryn C.) Liebschner can be proud."

Miss Liebschner, clerk-treasurer, reported a second advance of $118,000 on the February real estate tax collection. Miss Liebschner said she conferred with County Auditor Kenneth Bell and learned the final settlement will not be made until after May 20 and the settlement on the personal tax collection probably won't be distributed until about July 20.

She reported a balance of $111,414 in all funds. The balances included $53,896 in the general fund; $53,805, bond retirement; $2,995, cafeteria; $739, improvement; $15, firemen's training; $139, carpenter training; $16, foremen training, and $209, night school. There is a deficit of $401 in the workbook account.

Water Break Repaired After Home, School Cut

Water service to some 50 homes and Westgate School in the West End area was restored about 11 a. m. Monday after a crew completed repairs to a 6-inch main, which broke early Saturday.

The workmen cut out a 6-foot section of pipe and inserted a new piece and a sleeve to repair the split in the line which runs down the middle of W. 8th St.

The break was discovered Saturday morning but the crew was unable to locate the break until late Sunday.

Some 1,800 pupils at Westgate School returned to classes this morning after receiving a holiday Monday because of the lack of water.

Ohio Township

Open house was observed at Chippewa School in Chippewa Township Friday night, honoring Lawrence V. McMillin, former Ohio Township resident, on his retirement as principal.

McMillin, who has just concluded 50 years as a teacher and principal, taught Ohio Township, South Beaver and Chippewa schools. Friends and former students attended.

Pupils Have 1,300 Entries

600 Attend Art Show At Wellsville

Some 600 persons viewed the 1,300 entries in the second annual art exhibit of Wellsville public schools Friday and Saturday in the all-purpose room of MacDonald School.

Here Mark Fraser and Etta Potts, first grade pupils, look over first grade art entries.

Work of elementary and junior students included crayon, chalk, water colors, mosaic, oil paintings, charcoal sketches and pencil drawings. There were also finger paintings by kindergarten classes and clay animals made by the ungraded class. Drawings from the mechanical arts, projects from metal working departments and woodworking projects and plates from their first year's drawing class were on display.

8th American To Win Third

MacLeish Wins Pulitzer Prize For His Play 'J.B.'

NEW YORK (AP) — "J.B." a verse play which retells the book of Job in a modern setting, has brought Archibald MacLeish his third Pulitzer Prize, the 1959 award for drama.

MacLeish is the eighth American to win at least three Pulitzer prizes. His two previous awards, in 1933 and 1953, were for poetry.

The 1959 selections, announced Monday by Grayson Kirk, president of Columbia University, also put William H. (Bill) Mauldin of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch in select company. His second prize for cartooning places Mauldin among 34 individuals who have won more than one Pulitzer Prize.

His prize-winning cartoon was published after the Soviet Union forced Boris Pasternak to give up the Nobel Prize in literature. The cartoon's caption was: "I won the Nobel Prize for literature. What was your crime?"

A campaign against vice, gambling and corruption in Utica, N.Y., that achieved sweeping reforms won the 1959 Pulitzer Prize medal for meritorious public service for the Utica Observer-Dispatch and the Utica Daily Press, members of the Gannett group of newspapers.

"The Travels of Jaimie McPheeters," the adventures of a boy and his father during a wagon-train trek to California in the 1849 gold rush, was named the best American novel of 1958. Its author, Robert Lewis Taylor, 36, of Sharon, Conn., has written eight other books and numerous magazine pieces.

In the field of newspaper editorials, the prize went to Ralph McGill, 61, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, who is celebrating his 30th year with the paper. McGill was cited for his work through the year as exemplified by an editorial calling the bombing of a synagogue in Atlanta and a high school in Clinton, Tenn., the work of "rabid, mad dog minds."

The prizes for journalism, except for the medal, carry $1,000 cash awards. Awards for literature and music are for $500 each.

The music prize went to John La Montaine, 39, New York City, for his "Concerto for Piano and Orchestra."

The 43rd annual prizes were awarded by the Columbia University trustees on recommendations by the Advisory Board on Pulitzer Prizes. The awards have been given since 1917 through a bequest in the will of Joseph Pulitzer, newspaper publisher who died in 1911.

School Levy

provides that a district must levy a minimum of 8 mills on its own real estate to qualify for financial aid.

An additional amount to be asked, however, is up to the school board. Two years ago, the committee recommended asking 4 mills but after lengthy discussion it was cut by the board to 3 mills and was approved by a margin of 979 votes in the November 1957 general election.

The board was asked to consider the possibility of seeking additional operating funds at its meeting March 15 by Supt. Betts, who declared, "It's our responsibility to take the story to the people; they have to make the decision."

At that time, Betts suggested three separate levies be submitted if the board decided to ask for more funds. He recommended renewal of the present 8-mill levy, one earmarked specifically for maintenance purposes and any remainder for general operating expenses.

Board Says Ruling's 'Cockeyed'

Commencement Flowers' Spending Termed 'Illegal'

You can receive a high school diploma without fuss, fanfare—or flowers. At least that's the apparent feeling in the state auditor's office.

In a recent audit of school books, Supt. Ralph W. Betts told the Board of Education Monday night a representative of the auditor's office reported the board spent school funds illegally in 1956 and 1957 for flowers to decorate the stage at commencement and baccalaureate exercises.

Betts said paying for the decorations had been a practice of years but now is paid for from the high school activities fund.

Board members termed the ruling "farfetched" and "cockeyed."

The auditor also commented without recommendation that the board had violated the state law when it entered into a contract with Merrill Hall and Charles Snyder for bus transportation because Hall is a teacher in the city district.

The representative said he learned in conferring with the superintendent that no other bus service was available and that the board would have had to buy 10 additional busses if the contract hadn't been awarded.

The third item reported by the auditor was a suggestion the board transfer $16,900 from the general fund to the bond retirement fund when funds are available. It is similar to a suggestion made in the last audit.

An attorney-general's ruling provided that interest collected from money invested in bonds be returned to the bond retirement fund. Although the ruling since has been changed to provide that interest received can be spent for the same purpose for which the bonds were issued, the transfer still should be made, the report said.

Betts said the auditor's report is "one of which the board and Miss (Kathryn C.) Liebschner can be proud."

Miss Liebschner, clerk-treasurer, reported a second advance of $118,000 on the February real estate tax collection. Miss Liebschner said she conferred with County Auditor Kenneth Bell and learned the final settlement will not be made until after May 20 and the settlement on the personal tax collection probably won't be distributed until about July 20.

She reported a balance of $111,414 in all funds. The balances included $53,896 in the general fund; $53,805, bond retirement; $2,995, cafeteria; $739, improvement; $15, firemen's training; $139, carpenter training; $16, foremen training, and $209, night school. There is a deficit of $401 in the workbook account.

Water Break Repaired After Home, School Cut

Water service to some 50 homes and Westgate School in the West End area was restored about 11 a. m. Monday after a crew completed repairs to a 6-inch main, which broke early Saturday.

The workmen cut out a 6-foot section of pipe and inserted a new piece and a sleeve to repair the split in the line which runs down the middle of W. 8th St.

The break was discovered Saturday morning but the crew was unable to locate the break until late Sunday.

Some 1,800 pupils at Westgate School returned to classes this morning after receiving a holiday Monday because of the lack of water.

Open house was observed at Chippewa School in Chippewa Township Friday night, honoring Lawrence V. McMillin, former Ohio Township resident, on his retirement as principal.

McMillin, who has just concluded 50 years as a teacher and principal, taught Ohio Township, South Beaver and Chippewa schools. Friends and former students attended.

East End Proposals Aired

Council Given Inspection Reports

Two questions concerning East End — a proposal to establish three-lane traffic to speed rush-hour auto movement and a suggestion to drain or fill a flooded area in Columbian Park — still are under study after a personal inspection by councilmen and the administration.

A report on the investigation of the two problems was given to Council Monday night by Councilman Samuel B. Webber. He said the traffic situation and the condition of the flooded land were inspected a few days ago by a group that included himself, Councilmen H. A. Tullis and W. E. Kaiser, Mayor Fred P. Lawrence and Safety-Service Director Joseph F. Ross.

QUESTIONS raised about each situation must be ironed out before a decision can be made, Webber explained.

Council requested the investigation after the director suggested establishing three-lane traffic on Pennsylvania Ave., Elizabeth St. and Harvey Ave., using the third lane to speed auto movement during shift changes at the Midland mills.

In some cases, the stretch does not appear wide enough to maintain a third lane of traffic with safety, Webber said. Synchronization of traffic lights along the stretch also would be a problem, he added.

The mayor and Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper told Council a few weeks ago state law allows the city to drain or fill a stagnant "lake" in Columbian Park—if the property-holder refuses to act—and then bill the owner for the expense.

In connection with the water problem, there are questions about how the tract could be drained and there also was discussion about the possibility of filling the tract, which lies below the level of Pennsylvania Ave., Webber said.

TULLIS COMMENTED that he feels establishment of three-lane traffic "would be worse, instead of better, than at present." He recalled that a suggestion was made a year ago to establish three lanes of traffic on the approaches to Mulberry and Boyce Sts., but no action was taken.

Letters were read explaining the dates on which Midland, Chester and Wellsville will return to slow time this fall — the result of a survey requested a few weeks ago by Council to determine the plans of nearby communities.

Midland plans to return to Eastern Standard Time Oct. 25, but Wellsville and Chester will turn back their clocks on Sept. 27, the letters said. The survey was made as part of a Council-Board of Education discussion over whether East Liverpool should return to standard time on the last Sunday in September or continue with Daylight Saving Time until Oct. 25, as it has done for the last several years. After hearing the letters read, Council took no further action.

—:—

COUNCIL rejected a protest from Joseph Armstrong, Box 452, Station A, complaining that he feels he was charged too high a special assessment for installation of a sanitary sewer in Hazel Alley, East End. He said the lot is valued at $30 and he believes state law says an assessment cannot exceed a third of the assessed value.

Council rejected the protest because the deadline for such complaints on the sewer project fell in early February. However, the letter was received and filed.

In response to a question from Webber, the mayor reviewed recent developments in preparation of plans for the California Hollow-West End link of a city freeway. He reiterated that plans are in the process of being approved by the State Highway Department at Columbus and the Bureau of Public Roads at Washington, which will combine to put up about 90 per cent of the overall cost.

The mayor also reiterated that construction contracts should be let next spring, which means the four-lane stretch would be completed in the fall of 1961.

Councilman A. Stanley Kidder presented a petition asking the city to re-install a street light near Jefferson and W. 2nd Sts. The city removed the light about two years ago without giving notice to the householders nearby, he said. The petition was turned over to the street committee for investigation.

COUNCILMAN Robert W. Sample Jr., chairman of the street committee, reported approval of a request for a new street light in Chason Alley, which lies between Bank and Morton Sts.

Ross said he is continuing to receive queries about the city's plans to oil unsurfaced streets to keep down summer dust. He reiterated that the city "will co-operate to the best of its ability" in spreading oil supplied by property-owners. However, the city will not provide oil without cost, as it did in 1958, because that program was financed out of the proceeds of the former city income tax, he said.

Neighborhood groups interested in oiling programs should call the director's office for detailed information, Ross added.

Council enacted one piece of legislation — an ordinance raising the wages of the laborer at the sewage treatment plant from $1.45 to $1.60 hourly. The worker was overlooked when all other city employes were given a general increase in mid-1958.

—:—

KIDDER REPORTED rough stretches of pavement at E. 2nd St. and Broadway and at Jefferson and W. 3rd Sts. The brick pavement at the approach to an overhead railroad bridge at Elizabeth St. and Michigan Ave. should be re-laid to eliminate roughness caused by sinking of the ground underneath, he added.

Councilman William Y. Orr thanked city departments for their co-operation when the cellar of a Riley Ave. home was flooded recently. Tullis said he had five complaints from constituents which he had passed on to the director.

Ross said the street department is working to widen one-lane Lang St. to a 30-foot throughfare. Drainage problems along the street also are being corrected, he said.

DiSalle Urges Marking All RR Crossings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle has urged his highway director to mark all state railroad crossings in some manner.

At his press conference Monday, DiSalle said some crossings have no warning signs. He suggested a 50-50 fund matching basis with local government or financing from highway revenues for marking the crossings.

He also asked Highway Director Everett Preston if the Legislature should be urged to eliminate or protect 197 crossings not under state contract or the federal system.

Sen. Arthur Blake (D-Belmont) said he will press for legislative action on a bill to stop job discrimination for men over 45. DiSalle had requested more time to study the problem.

The governor suggested a study of discrimination for men over 40 and women over 35. The study report would be made in two years to the Legislature.

Blake, however, said he had enough information to support his bill. The proposal would prevent employers from rejecting men over 45 if they could do the job required.

Blake said his measure is sponsored at the behest of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. FOE officials said they have 99,276 signatures on a petition supporting Blake's bill.

Massachusetts Judge Named Mother Of 1959

NEW YORK (AP)—Jennie Loitman Barron of Brookline, Mass., judge of the Superior Court of Massachusetts and grandmother of seven, was named today the American Mother of 1959.

Announcement was made by Mrs. Daniel A. Poling, president of the American Mothers Committee Inc., before a distinguished group of mothers chosen from each state, assembled at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel to hear the decision of the national jury.

Judge Barron is the mother of three daughters. Throughout her life she has been active in community, state and national organizations. Although she has been outstanding in her profession of law since her marriage, she always put her duties as wife and mother ahead of professional demands.

3 Winners Selected In Marble Tournament

EAST PALESTINE — Don Hatten, 83 E. Rebecca St., was first place winner in a marble tournament for boys by Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4579 Saturday at the City Park.

Russell Laner was second and William Herriott, third, in the contest. The winners are slated to take part in a district contest Sunday at Dover. About 100 participated in the event Saturday.

Two Named Fellows Of Cleveland Orchestra

CLEVELAND (AP)—Conductor George Szell has appointed a former Clevelander and two other noted musicians as fellows of the Cleveland Orchestra.

One Kulas fellowship will be shared by Prof. Bernard Goodman, a former violinist in the orchestra, and Evan Whallon, conductor of the Columbus Symphony Orchestra. The other grant was awarded to Maurits Sillem, European operatic and symphonic conductor.

Urges Sunday Liquor

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Convention and Visitors Bureau has advocated the sale of liquor on Sunday to enhance Cleveland's place as a convention city. The bureau's board Monday approved a resolution urging that the sale of liquor after 4 p. m. on Sunday be legalized.

Mamie Greets Ohioan

WASHINGTON (AP) — "My, you're tall," Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower greeted a 13-year-old six-footer from Garfield Heights, Ohio. The youth, Robert Kowalczyk, was one of six teen-age school patrol boys honored Monday by the first lady for saving the lives of schoolmates in the past year.

Motor Club Issues Appeal To Reduce Highway Littering

Frank C. Serna, secretary-manager of the Beaver County Motor Club at Rochester, today urged motorists to keep highways clean and free of litter.

"Motorists should carry litter-bags or other portable containers in their cars at all times," he said. "There are special containers on sale, but a plain grocery bag, box or basket will do."

Contents should be disposed of in the garbage or trash can at home, or in "travel trash" receptacles provided for the motoring public at roadside rests, at co-operating service stations, or other roadside business establishments, he said.

Serna said state and local law enforcement officers throughout the nation, operating under tighter laws and regulations, are campaigning against litterbugs. He said there is a sharp rise in the number of arrests for scattering trash on highways.

He said he hopes that in thousands of years from now archeologists will not have to dig through mountains of bottles, beer cans, paper cups, gum wrappers, tin cans, cigarette packs and broken glass to reach what used to be our highways, beaches, parks and communities.

East End Proposals Aired

Council Given Inspection Reports

Two questions concerning East End — a proposal to establish three-lane traffic to speed rush-hour auto movement and a suggestion to drain or fill a flooded area in Columbian Park — still are under study after a personal inspection by councilmen and the administration.

A report on the investigation of the two problems was given to Council Monday night by Councilman Samuel B. Webber. He said the traffic situation and the condition of the flooded land were inspected a few days ago by a group that included himself, Councilmen H. A. Tullis and W. E. Kaiser, Mayor Fred P. Lawrence and Safety-Service Director Joseph F. Ross.

QUESTIONS raised about each situation must be ironed out before a decision can be made, Webber explained.

Council requested the investigation after the director suggested establishing three-lane traffic on Pennsylvania Ave., Elizabeth St. and Harvey Ave., using the third lane to speed auto movement during shift changes at the Midland mills.

In some cases, the stretch does not appear wide enough to maintain a third lane of traffic with safety, Webber said. Synchronization of traffic lights along the stretch also would be a problem, he added.

The mayor and Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper told Council a few weeks ago state law allows the city to drain or fill a stagnant "lake" in Columbian Park—if the property-holder refuses to act—and then bill the owner for the expense.

In connection with the water problem, there are questions about how the tract could be drained and there also was discussion about the possibility of filling the tract, which lies below the level of Pennsylvania Ave., Webber said.

TULLIS COMMENTED that he feels establishment of three-lane traffic "would be worse, instead of better, than at present." He recalled that a suggestion was made a year ago to establish three lanes of traffic on the approaches to Mulberry and Boyce Sts., but no action was taken.

Letters were read explaining the dates on which Midland, Chester and Wellsville will return to slow time this fall — the result of a survey requested a few weeks ago by Council to determine the plans of nearby communities.

Midland plans to return to Eastern Standard Time Oct. 25, but Wellsville and Chester will turn back their clocks on Sept. 27, the letters said. The survey was made as part of a Council-Board of Education discussion over whether East Liverpool should return to standard time on the last Sunday in September or continue with Daylight Saving Time until Oct. 25, as it has done for the last several years. After hearing the letters read, Council took no further action.

COUNCIL rejected a protest from Joseph Armstrong, Box 452, Station A, complaining that he feels he was charged too high a special assessment for installation of a sanitary sewer in Hazel Alley, East End. He said the lot is valued at $30 and he believes state law says an assessment cannot exceed a third of the assessed value.

Council rejected the protest because the deadline for such complaints on the sewer project fell in early February. However, the letter was received and filed.

In response to a question from Webber, the mayor reviewed recent developments in preparation of plans for the California Hollow-West End link of a city freeway. He reiterated that plans are in the process of being approved by the State Highway Department at Columbus and the Bureau of Public Roads at Washington, which will combine to put up about 90 per cent of the overall cost.

The mayor also reiterated that construction contracts should be let next spring, which means the four-lane stretch would be completed in the fall of 1961.

Councilman A. Stanley Kidder presented a petition asking the city to re-install a street light near Jefferson and W. 2nd Sts. The city removed the light about two years ago without giving notice to the householders nearby, he said. The petition was turned over to the street committee for investigation.

COUNCILMAN Robert W. Sample Jr., chairman of the street committee, reported approval of a request for a new street light in Chason Alley, which lies between Bank and Morton Sts.

Ross said he is continuing to receive queries about the city's plans to oil unsurfaced streets to keep down summer dust. He reiterated that the city "will co-operate to the best of its ability" in spreading oil supplied by property-owners. However, the city will not provide oil without cost, as it did in 1958, because that program was financed out of the proceeds of the former city income tax, he said.

Neighborhood groups interested in oiling programs should call the director's office for detailed information, Ross added.

Council enacted one piece of legislation — an ordinance raising the wages of the laborer at the sewage treatment plant from $1.45 to $1.60 hourly. The worker was overlooked when all other city employes were given a general increase in mid-1958.

KIDDER REPORTED rough stretches of pavement at E. 2nd St. and Broadway and at Jefferson and W. 3rd Sts. The brick pavement at the approach to an overhead railroad bridge at Elizabeth St. and Michigan Ave. should be re-laid to eliminate roughness caused by sinking of the ground underneath, he added.

Councilman William Y. Orr thanked city departments for their co-operation when the cellar of a Riley Ave. home was flooded recently. Tullis said he had five complaints from constituents which he had passed on to the director.

Ross said the street department is working to widen one-lane Lang St. to a 30-foot throughfare. Drainage problems along the street also are being corrected, he said.

DiSalle Urges Marking All RR Crossings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle has urged his highway director to mark all state railroad crossings in some manner.

At his press conference Monday, DiSalle said some crossings have no warning signs. He suggested a 50-50 fund matching basis with local government or financing from highway revenues for marking the crossings.

He also asked Highway Director Everett Preston if the Legislature should be urged to eliminate or protect 197 crossings not under state contract or the federal system.

Sen. Arthur Blake (D-Belmont) said he will press for legislative action on a bill to stop job discrimination for men over 45. DiSalle had requested more time to study the problem.

The governor suggested a study of discrimination for men over 40 and women over 35. The study report would be made in two years to the Legislature.

Blake, however, said he had enough information to support his bill. The proposal would prevent employers from rejecting men over 45 if they could do the job required.

Blake said his measure is sponsored at the behest of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. FOE officials said they have 99,276 signatures on a petition supporting Blake's bill.
